Therapeutic

Q. We have some equipment used in rehabilitating the physically handicapped which we would like to donate to a worthy cause. Can ACTION LINE find someone who can come and pick it up? L.B., Paramount.

A. The equipment was accepted for the Spastic Children's Foundation Inc., 1307 W. 105th St., Los Angeles, by Ann Wendt, executive director. Mrs. Wendt told ACTION LINE that the foundation deals with severely brain-damaged and physically handicapped individuals and fees are based on ability to pay. Children ranging in age from 3 to 18 and adults 18 and older are given resident care and therapy. "No person is too handicapped or too poor to receive our care," Mrs. Wendt added. Fund-raising costs for this organization take only 8 per cent of every dollar while the other 92 per cent goes directly to child and adult training. Mrs. Wendt will contact you immediately to arrange a time for a truck from the foundation to pick up the equipment.

Walk Work

Q. We have a huge camphor tree in the parkway in front of our house. A root of this tree has lifted the sidewalk and created quite a safety hazard. We live in an unincorporated area and several years ago the county filled the most dangerous areas with asphalt, but we're still afraid someone may trip and fall. Isn't it the county's responsibility to remove this root and repair the sidewalk? L.C.M., Compton.

A. The county shares this responsibility with the property owner, according to a spokesman for the County Road Department, and makes only the repairs necessary to eliminate serious safety hazards. This usually consists of filling with asphalt the holes created by the raised sidewalk. Chapter 22 of the Streets and Highways Code states that repairs to the parkway and sidewalk will be made at the property owner's expense. However, the spokesman told ACTION LINE that the Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution on June 18 to establish a policy for the replacement of deteriorated, misplaced and damaged sidewalks, curbs and roads. This resolution provides that the county will give the property owner financial assistance in certain cases where a county tree is causing the damage. "This is not a blanket ruling for all damaged sidewalks," the spokesman warned. "Each case must be investigated individually, and in most cases the property owner must agree to removal of the tree." If you feel you have a special problem you may contact the County Road Department at 1540 Alcazar St., Los Angeles. The number to call is 225-1677.

Tough Stuff

Q. I used a product called Kwik Sheen on my kitchen floor. I put it on according to directions and, although it yellowed my floor slightly, it did leave a beautiful shine and wasn't as slippery as wax. After a couple of months it started wearing off in spots and I decided to remove all of it. That's where my trouble began. Nothing, except lots of patience and a razor blade, will remove it. My floor is now a complete mess and I wonder if ACTION LINE can tell me how to get this stuff off. S.D.B., Compton.

A. "Once it is on, it stays," said a spokesman for Pamasa Products in Fullerton, manufacturers of Kwik Sheen. Although the product has now been discontinued, the spokesman was able to offer a few suggestions for removing it, none easy. If you have a linoleum floor, pour lacquer thinner, available from paint stores, on a small area of the floor at a time and scrub with steel wool, then wipe with a turkish towel. "No razor blade or knife is necessary," the spokesman said. If your floor is rubber or vinyl tile, Kwik Sheen can be removed with Spic 'n' Span, an electric carpet cleaning brush and then a kitchen scouring powder. If you employ a flammable solvent such as lacquer thinner, be certain there are no pilot lights or other open flames in the area and work with plenty of ventilation. Using such a solvent indoors poses a severe fire hazard.

Organists?

Q. We understand that a national clearinghouse for locating vital organs needed for transplants is being set up by a nonprofit organization called Medico-Alert. We'd like to find out more about this, but can't find an address for Medico-Alert. Can ACTION LINE tell us where to write? H.S., Long Beach.

A. The Medico-Alert Foundation was founded in 1956 and designed primarily to encourage people to wear identification tags noting any medical problems that should be known in an emergency. They have an office at 1000 N. Palm St., Torrance, Calif. 90501. Each member is issued an identification bracelet or necklace with the symbol of the medical profession on one side and the individual's medical problem and the phone number of the foundation's central file on the other. Additional medical and personal information is filed in the central file, where calls are accepted 24 hours a day. The foundation has recently expanded its membership to include people wishing to donate their bodies or vital organs when they die. The foundation does not make legal arrangements for individuals to donate their bodies nor do they have a bank of donated organs. They simply issue identification tags and keep records of potential donors.

SOUND OFF!

I would like to propose that a portion of Pier J be preserved for a jogging lane. We, as a family, have been going out there every evening and we find it a perfect place to run—not many people and the air is crisp and clean. We do not have TV at home and are in no hurry to rush back after our run so we have time to sit on the breakwall and discuss life or watch the crabs or a sunset. The surface of oil covering the fill on Pier J is perfect for jogging—just soft enough to give a little—and we recommend it for any other joggers who might be interested. We do hope the future development of the pier will not squeeze out such as we. R.D., Long Beach.

REACTION AS LIFE IS SPARED
Kirschke: 'Nothing Could Surprise Me'

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Standing pale and gaunt, convicted murderer Jack Kirschke, who for more than 12 months has waged a fight for freedom, Friday continued to take notes, his face showing no emotion, as Judge Kathleen Parker sentenced him to life imprisonment.

His left hand stuffed in his pocket, he bent over the counsel table in the dark-paneled courtroom, writing. His pencil never stopped... he never looked up.

Kirschke summed up his own mood after the hearing, telling newsmen that "nothing has surprised me" since the bodies of his wife, Elaine, and her lover Bill Drankhan were found in a Naples bedroom.

He took notes earlier, his face unemotional, as Judge Kathleen Parker, the woman jurist who ruled over his bizarre trial, denied him a new trial.

Judge Parker, in reducing the sentence from death to life, said she believed "the facts and circumstances do not warrant the death penalty."

SHE SAID she believed the jury had been influenced by Kirschke's arguments, after he dismissed defense attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey, and told the jury either to give him the death penalty or set him free.

Kirschke said at the time he figured he could live in San Quentin Death Row, but would be killed by another prisoner — one whom he prosecuted — in "The Yard" if sentenced to life imprisonment.

Only sound in the crowded courtroom as Judge Parker made her ruling was an audible gasp of a woman spectator.

Only three "old reliable" spectators who sat through the year-long trial were on hand for the final verdict Friday. One was the woman convicted murderer referred to as his own "Madame DeFarge," (Madame DeFarge, in Dickens' " Tale of Two Cities," was the gray-haired woman who sat knitting as the gullotine took its toll.)

KIRSCHKE faced his final verdict alone. Neither his son, Doug, now in the service but who was in court almost every day; his daughter, Mrs. Terry Stacy, who testified in his defense; nor his brother or

Reagan Calls Special Session of Legislature

Feud With 'SERIOUS' BUT STABLE

7th Ike Seizure

By ROBERT M. SHAW

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan said Friday he will call a special session of the Legislature for September to consider at least two items—two bills passed by the Assembly after the Legislature was adjourned.

He said whether any other unfinished business—such as property tax relief or school aid—is considered will depend on the outcome of meetings with legislative leaders.

The governor said the two issues, which will be put before the special session are increases in workmen's compensation and in disability insurance benefits.

The Assembly approved bills raising both benefits on Aug. 6, three days after the Legislature was adjourned by proclamation.

LATER, Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, asked Reagan to add to the agenda the subject of emergency aid for slum-area school districts and more financial help for kindergarten and special education programs.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, has sent a letter to Reagan saying he can't — and won't — promise that Democrats in the Assembly will support Reagan's $155-million property tax relief plan.

IN THE letter, Unruh agreed to meet Reagan "at any mutually convenient time" but said, "I clearly can give you no such assurance, nor would I do so if I were able."

The governor's office issued a statement saying Unruh's letter "is obviously intended for propaganda purposes only and cannot be considered a serious approach to the problem."

Reagan said Friday, "There has been a great deal of loose talk about who did what in the legislative session. The plain mat-

WASHINGTON, Saturday (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower once more lies gravely ill after suffering his seventh, and possibly one of his worst, heart attacks.

The five-star general was stricken at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital at 1:25 p.m. Friday — just as he was apparently on the road to recovery from his most recent previous cardiac assault Aug. 6.

The new attack was the fourth in 3½ months. And it was the third in a row to strike when the old warrior and elder statesman had appeared to be on his way to recovery from the previous one.

Indeed, at the time of the two most recent previous attacks, Eisenhower had been within about a week of discharge from the hospital to return to his Gettysburg farm home.

An indication of the severity of the newest attack lay in the fact the Army doctors voluntarily described it as "another serious" one in their initial report.

In the earlier attacks suffered at Walter Reed, the initial reports said only that the 77-year-old general had suffered "another" seizure without using such labels as "major" or "serious."

It has only been in answer to reporters' submitted questions in these previous attacks that the doctors would further define the severity.

The formal medical bulletin said:

"Gen. Eisenhower sustained another serious heart attack at 1:25 p.m. today (Friday). Prior to this attack the general was feeling well, was in excellent spirits and had been progressing satisfactorily. His condition at this report is stable. The doctors interpret this episode as serious but have not as yet appraised its full consequences."

The word "stable" means that Eisenhower's so-called vital signs — blood pressure, pulse and breathing rate — have remained at satisfactory levels for at least some period after the attack.

Eisenhower already has more than defied mortality statistics on heart attacks.

His seventh and latest means that he has now had more than twice as many attacks as the number — three — that most often add up to certain and swift death.

Eisenhower has been in Walter Reed since May 14

Demo Parley Bans Candidate Hoopla

Combined News Services

CHICAGO — The Democratic National Committee announced Friday that floor demonstrations for candidates will be eliminated at the Democratic convention to cut down on the sort of interruptions that delayed the Republican convention in Miami Beach.

John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman, said at a news conference that this decision and others had been made by the convention arrangements committee without consulting the White House.

"I'm running this convention whether anyone believes it or not," he said.

THE comment was an allusion to charges that President Johnson was the behind-the-scenes man in charge of the convention.

In Austin, Tex., the White House also said Johnson was not engineering the convention, and had not even decided whether he would attend.

Press Secretary, George Christian, under a barrage of questioning from newsmen, staunchly denied that Johnson has more than a passing interest in the Chicago proceedings starting Aug. 26; said the President doesn't even plan to attend as things now stand; insisted that "as far as I know, the President has had nothing to do with the convention arrangements or the writing of the party platform."

THE decision to do away with planned floor demonstrations came "in view of the desire of many people," Bailey said. He said presidential contenders Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. George S. McGovern had expressed such desires and that he had conferred with a representative of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who concurred.

Bailey said the President would be officially invited to come to Chicago and afforded a place of honor at the convention hall.

Others to be similarly honored, he said, are former President Harry S. Truman; the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Mrs. Martin Luther King

FLAREUP IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police read the riot act to scattered groups of unruly persons in the predominantly Negro Avondale area Friday night, where disturbances erupted after a Negro woman was shot fatally from a passing car. Shortly after the shooting police took into custody two white men. Police riot squads were sent into the Avondale area and command posts were established. Off-duty police were called in.

Police said the shooting occurred about four blocks from where a widespread rioting broke out last April. The slain woman was Wil-

'Much Soul-Searching' Leads Maddox to Seek Presidency

ATLANTA (UPI) — Gov.

Lester Maddox, "after much soul-searching in response to the demand," said Friday he has decided to run for the Democratic presidential nomination to save the party from socialism.

He called a news conference before nationwide television in the chamber of the House of Representatives at 11 a.m. today to announce his decision. The former fried-chicken restaurateur, evidently expecting an overflow crowd, had loudspeakers installed outside the gold-domed Capitol.

His decision was revealed Friday in a letter to Georgia convention delegates, saying that "after much soul-searching in response to the demand and in what is believed to be the best interest of the party and the country, the conclusion has been reached that the Democratic party must be offered a conservative candidate."

"Therefore, on Saturday my candidacy for president of the United States shall be announced in the House chamber."

Maddox said conservative support was rallying around him "so fast I can't keep up with it."

The bond was secured by Anthony Bartholomew, 19-year-old youth held in connection with a gun battle between police and Black Panther activists last week, was released from jail Friday night on $12,500 bond.

The bond was secured by the United Bonding Company. The agency refused to identify the client arranging for the bail.

Bartholomew has been held on a complaint charging two counts of assault with intent to murder two police officers, both wounded in the shooting Aug. 5.

Three men exchanging fire with the officers were killed. One of the group escaped.

Bartholomew, sought as the sole survivor of the asserted Panther group, surrendered to Municipal Judge Joan Dempsey Klein last Friday.

Maddox said convention delegates from "Hawaii and California and all over the United States" have mailed him words of support. It amounted, he said to "several hundred delegates."

Meanwhile Friday, sources said President Johnson has already ordered Secret Service protection for Maddox effective Saturday.

2-Day Battle; Kill 100 Reds

SAIGON, Saturday—Enemy forces fired 300 mortar rounds to kick off a strong ground push against a province capital 40 miles east of Saigon, South Vietnamese Headquarters reported today. At least 100 enemy and 52 government troops were killed in a two-day series of clashes.

The fighting started Thursday morning with the mortar barrage and a ground attack on the headquarters in Xuan Loc of the 52nd Vietnamese Artillery Regiment. Several 122mm rockets hit the nearby base camp of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment.

INTERNATIONAL

Friday, a battalion of the South Vietnamese troops was ambushed six miles southeast of Xuan Loc, capital of Long Vanh Province. Armored units were sent to reinforce the battalion as artillery and air strikes were called in. The Xuan Loc action did not appear to be part of any push against Saigon.

In the air war, U.S. pilots flew 114 missions against supply lines and storage bases in the southern panhandle of North Vietnam. Pilots reported destroying 66 boats, 26 trucks and 23 antiaircraft positions.

Deserter Confesses Assassination Try
ATHENS — The Greek regime announced Friday that a 29-year-old army deserter under arrest has confessed to trying to assassinate Premier George Papadopoulos. It charged he acted after meeting in Paris with leftist Andreas Papandreu, an enemy of the regime. The suspect was identified as Alexander Panagoulis. A bomb blast rocked downtown Athens Friday but injured no one. It was the fourth bomb exploded in the capital since the attempt to kill the premier with a dynamite blast on a road near Athens.

U.N. Condemns Israel for Jordan Attack
UNITED NATIONS—The U.N. Security Council Friday unanimously voted to condemn Israel for its Aug. 4 attack against Jordan. The 15-nation council, which met Friday evening, did not specifically mention the Arab commando raids into Israel which Israel said promoted the air attack. The resolution, finally approved in a brief council session, "condemns the further military attacks launched by Israel . . . and warns that if such attacks were to be repeated the council would fully take account of the failure to comply with the present resolution."

Russ Supersonic Jet Ready to Fly
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union's supersonic passenger airliner, the TU144, has been completed and is being readied for its maiden flight, Radio Moscow reported Friday night. The Soviet supersonic transport has long been expected to fly before the British-French and the American models. The supersonic plane, built in Moscow, has been viewed only by a few selected foreigners. Target date for its first flight is a secret.

Fierce Fighting Rages in Civil War
ABA, Biafra — Military sources reported fierce fighting on all fronts Friday in what was described as the biggest push of the 14-month civil war by Federal Nigerian forces. Biafran defenders were trying to hold the line. Heavy combat was reported continuing in several areas. The Biafran informants said Nigerian troops launched the push less than 24 hours after the start of what was to have been a temporary truce for the duration of peace talks in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Extend Maneuvers Near Czechoslovakia
MOSCOW — Soviet and Hungarian troops maneuvering in Hungary have extended a military encirclement of Czechoslovakia to its southern flank, Tass announced Friday. The report was accompanied by blunt words of warning to Czechoslovak reform leaders in the Soviet press. The Tass report from Budapest, quoting a Hungarian news agency, said Hungarian troops and Soviet communications units "temporarily stationed in Hungarian territory" were taking part in the exercises. The maneuvers were described as part of the giant "communications unit" exercises already begun in Poland, East Germany and Western Ukraine.

Typhoon Polly Claims 29 Fishermen
TOKYO, Saturday — Thirty-nine Japanese fishermen were missing in the typhoon-battered East China Sea and Korea Strait early Saturday. Typhoon Polly, the year's seventh typhoon in the Pacific, was headed northeast toward Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island.

South Korea Girds for Sabotage Attempt
SEOUL — Premier Chung Il Kwon suggested Friday that if North Korea mounted any major subversion and sabotage campaign against his country, South Koreans were prepared to retaliate in kind, the New York Times Service reported. He and other top Korean and American officials here are concerned that North Korea's Premier, Kim Il Sung, will seek to cause chaos in the South by sending agents on widespread sabotage missions. Such a campaign might create doubts in the minds of South Koreans about the ability of their government to protect them.

Anti-U.S. Protesters, Police Clash
MANILA — About 250 anti-American demonstrators clashed with riot police who fired shots into the air Friday night during a torchlight protest parade to the U.S. Embassy. Some demonstrators belted police with placards and tossed torches into police forces who surrounded the embassy buildings. The crowd, which included several members of the Socialist Party, was protesting American foreign policy and the U.S. military presence in the Philippines. Two demonstrators were arrested.

STAGGERING LOSS

Lloyd's of London, the exclusive society of private insurers, reported Friday a staggering loss of $91.2 million, the first underwriting loss since Lloyd's started keeping international records in 1948. The report covered the year 1965 in keeping with Lloyd's practice of holding open its underwriting accounts for three years to get a better picture of claim settlements. In 1965, premium income rose to more than $1.1 billion, but claims reached a record $1.2 billion. The greatest source of claims was Hurricane Betsy in the U.S., but there were also big claims from the unusually large number of storms in the U.S. Midwest, damage caused by the Watts riots in Los Angeles and a number of air crashes.

U.S. Registers First Space Doubleheader

CAPE KENNEDY — America successfully tested its two newest and most destructive missile systems Friday with an unprecedented double launching of multiple-warhead rockets that may give a new perspective to the balance of nuclear forces. The Air Force, completing the first attempt to send two missile systems on maiden flights on the same day, launched a Minuteman 3 on a 5,000-mile flight over the Atlantic to a splashdown near Ascension Island. A few hours earlier the Navy sent its new Poseidon, a missile designed to spray as many as 10 warheads on targets hundreds of miles apart, on a 1,000-mile flight into the Atlantic. The Air Force and Navy both labeled the flights complete successes. "The initial flight of the Minuteman 3 intercontinental ballistic missile, launched by an Air Force crew, has been a complete success," the Air Force announced a half-hour after the missile leaped from an underground silo and roared out over the ocean to a planned splashdown near Ascension Island. When it becomes operational, Minuteman 3 will be able to carry three warheads. Poseidon's first trial "was a complete success," the Navy announced a few minutes after the dawn blastoff. "All test objectives were met and the missile flew its programmed flight."

Million Kick Smoking Habit Yearly
WASHINGTON — The Surgeon General's task force on smoking and health reported Friday that one million Americans are kicking the cigarette habit every year, and men find it easier to quit smoking than women. The 10-member group said that antismoking campaigns across the U.S. are beginning to take effect. One fourth of all American men and one-fifth of the women who ever smoked have now quit, the panel said.

A 17-page task force report urged new steps to discourage smoking and accused the tobacco industry of "encouraging death and disease" through expensive public relations campaigns to counter anti-smoking trends.

Ray Attorney Asks Charge Dismissal
MEMPHIS — Attorneys for James Earl Ray, accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said Friday "pervasive and widespread" publicity in the case has cost Ray his chance for a fair trial anywhere in the United States. A motion filed with the Shelby County clerk of court asked that murder charges against Ray be dropped. It said King had been "canonized" by the press and Ray had been made the object of "widespread public outrage and hatred."

Over 140,000 Jobs for Unemployed
WASHINGTON — The National Alliance of Businessmen has found 140,000 jobs for the unemployed and one official estimated Friday this number may have reached 200,000. Leo C. Beebe, NAB executive vice chairman, told a news conference the firm figure of 140,000 on jobs has been given to President Johnson in a six-month progress report on their jobs campaign. "I know that 200,000 have been placed," he said. "I can't prove it but I know it."

Ted Kennedy Home from Europe
BOSTON — Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., returned home Friday from a vacation in Greece and left immediately for his home at Hyannis Port on Cape Cod where he was greeted by his family. The senator declined interviews at Logan International Airport. Kennedy had been yachting in the Aegean with Greek ship owner Aristotle Onassis. He made an overnight stop in London, arriving Thursday night from Zurich. The U.S. embassy said it was a purely private visit to Britain. Sources also said Kennedy visited former Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and stayed at MacMillan's country home.

Police Push Hunt for Killer of Boy
GRANADA HILLS — Police are searching for a bandit who shot and killed the 15-year-old son of a Granada Hills liquor store owner during an attempted robbery. The boy, John C. Hand Jr., of Granada Hills, was gunned down Thursday night while his father was in the rear of the store. The senior Hand told police he heard a shot and came running out to find his son shot in the head and lying on the floor. The boy was rushed to Holy Cross Hospital, where he was dead on arrival.

Mia Divorces Sinatra

Combined News Services
Actress Mia Farrow, looking lean and sleepless, flew from New York Friday to El Paso, Tex., for a quickie divorce from singer Frank Sinatra in Juarez, Mexico. The decree was signed at noon. Miss Farrow was accompanied by three men who said they were lawyers. Miss Farrow, the daughter of actress Maureen O'Sullivan and director John Farrow, charged Sinatra with cruelty and incompatibility and asked to have her maiden name restored.

She married the 52-year-old Sinatra in July 1966 at Las Vegas. She said life had been unbearable with him and that she had not lived with him as man and wife since December of 1967. Dressed in slacks and a green checkered blouse, she appeared so nervous she could hardly hold the pen. Her hands trembled as she signed the papers at Municipal Palace. After the proceedings she flew to Hollywood.

For Sinatra, it was a third divorce. It was his wife's first. Friends of Sinatra said the actress was flown to El Paso in the singer's private jet.

After the November separation, the slender blonde traveled to India to study transcendental meditation with the Maharishi Meheresh Yogi. Terms of the divorce and a property settlement were not disclosed. Neither Sinatra nor Miss Farrow, whose marriage was childless, were available to comment on the divorce or their immediate plans for the future.

AVIATRIX FOR SAS

The Swedish airline SAS announced Friday it has accepted a Norwegian aviatrix as a pilot trainee. It is the first major airline in the world to sign up a woman as a potential flight captain. The SAS candidate, Truid Wideroe, a 30-year-old blonde, has logged more than 1,300 hours of flying time and is the daughter of one of Norway's aviation pioneers, Wiggo Wideroe.

FIVE TO LIFE

A convicted murderer, arrested last March as one of the FBI's "Most Wanted Men," Friday was sentenced to prison for five years to life for the slaying of a Hollywood shoe salesman, Jerry R. Peacock, 30, was convicted of second-degree murder in the bludgeoning death of James Burdette, 37. Burdette's body was found Feb. 8, 1967, in a Hollywood apartment shared by the two men. Peacock escaped from Soledad State Prison in 1968 where he was serving a five-year to life sentence for armed robbery.

ELECTROCUTED

The grandson of motion picture director-producer King Vidor was electrocuted when he touched a power line while climbing a tree. A companion said the victim, Kenneth D. Jones, 11, climbed a 25-foot pine tree in Modesto, lost his balance and grabbed the power line to keep from falling. Vidor worked on such films as "War and Peace."

'ADAM AND EVE' SUED

The painting portrays Brigitte Bardot as Eve holding an apple and husband Gunther Sachs is seen as Adam flexing a bow. That was before Eden soured for the pair. Now Italian Painter Gilberto Severi wants to take the French film star and her estranged West German mate to court to collect the commission promised him for the painting and two others. The two-year-old marriage of Miss Bardot, 33, is reported near a breakup. Severi said the couple commissioned him to paint portraits and a painting showing them in Eden as Adam and Eve. "Now I'm taking Adam and Eve to court for failing to honor their verbal contract with me," Severi said.

MILLER, BROWN HIT AMERICA ON ROME TV

American author Henry Miller said in a Rome television interview shown Friday the United States is a "sick" country that can be cured by learning to live with fewer comforts. In the same program, former California Gov. Edmund G. Brown said, "Today we are paying the penalty for years of indifference toward the problems of minorities in this country." Miller and Brown were among several personalities interviewed for the Italian-produced program, filmed in America, entitled: "California: the Dissension." Miller said "we (Americans) are the victims of a machine, an invisible machine that compels us to do a given thing, to do it always better, always bigger . . . and this helps to make us all the more sick." He said America can heal itself by following the example of Europeans and living with fewer comforts.

GRAPE AID

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White Friday said Boston would join the nationwide boycott of California grapes. The Mayor's move came on the eve of a scheduled protest march by migrant farm workers. White ordered city agencies to stop purchases of California grapes, and said, "The United Farm Workers have had to fight so hard and so long for their basic rights. It is an injustice which we must all work to remedy."

BORN BLIND

An Ogden, Utah, youth who was born blind can now see well enough to read a newspaper, a New York eye specialist said Friday. Dr. William Feinbloom said Billy Gibson, 16, who returned to Ogden, now has 10 per cent vision — thanks to four-lens spectacles which Feinbloom devised for him during a week's visit to New York. "When he put on the spectacles and saw for the first time, he said, 'My God! My son! Oh, Man!'" He meant to say "my dad" but in his excitement it came out "my son." He was so pleased to see his mother and said he never imagined how good she looked.

Copters Grounded After Crash Blame Pinpointed

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Los Angeles Airways said it has no immediate plans to resume helicopter commuter service following the disclosure Friday by an investigating board that metal fatigue was the cause of a Compton crash which claimed 21 lives Wednesday. A spokesman for the airline said its fleet of Sikorsky S-61 jet-powered helicopters would remain out of service "until further notice" following the announcement by a National Transportation Safety Board investigating team. The company shut down service on all its routes linking communities in Los Angeles and surrounding counties immediately after the Compton crash.

In recommendations forwarded to the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington, the investigators urged an immediate inspection of all Sikorsky S-61 helicopters for signs of similar fatigue in the spindles to which the craft's five rotor blades are attached.

George R. Baker, supervisor of the investigating team, said the spindle on the LAA helicopter which crashed Wednesday had last been inspected 459 hours before it failed.

Baker said he found "no evidence of negligence on the part of anyone," but the investigators recommended more precise and frequent inspections of the Sikorsky spindle units.

Failure of the spindle unit caused one of the helicopter's main rotor blades to separate from the assembly, the investigators said.

This finding coincided with evidence at the scene of the crash, where a rotor blade was found several blocks away from the main wreckage.

The spindle, one of five securing the rotor blades to the drive shaft of the helicopter, is a machined forging in a "Y" shape with two loops at the top of the fork and a cylindrical stem.

The failure came at the neck of the yoke, the investigators said.

Oscar M. Laurel, member of the investigating board, said the probe would continue into the cause of the failure, but added the board was recommending that the FAA study the possibility of setting a maximum period of use for the part before replacement.

Laurel also said an investigation is continuing into a previous crash of a Los Angeles Airways helicopter last May 22 in Paramount, but as yet no evidence had been found it was caused by a failure of the same part.

In the Paramount crash, 23 persons died.

The board's report stated the identical spindle parts in the Paramount crash did not suffer fatigue failure. However, it added, the safety board "is scrutinizing all of the facts so far developed in both investigations."

Baker said the spindle which failed Wednesday had been in use for 7,390 hours out of 11,060 flight hours on the helicopter. The part has been sent to a metallurgy laboratory in Washington for further analysis.

Baker also said a part of the helicopter's rotor is still missing and asked residents of the area to aid in locating it. He described the part, a pitch change rod, as a gray pipe-like device about 18 inches long, and said it was important to the final outcome of the investigation.

HELICOPTER PATROLLING EXPANDED

Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department helicopters are air-patrolling the skies over Downey and Whittier today under an expanded program for such contractual police services.

The two cities joined six others in the county — Norwalk, Pico Rivera, La Mirada, Santa Fe Springs, Bell Gardens and Commerce — in the new "Argus" project.

Lakewood and neighboring cities pioneered the similar "Sky Knight" copter patrol program.

Cranston Debate Asked by Rafferty

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, Friday said he hoped Alan Cranston, his Democratic rival for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Thomas Kuchel, would debate him.

"I eagerly anticipate such combined appearances," said Rafferty, who beat Kuchel's effort for the GOP nomination for another term.

HOWEVER, Rafferty pointed out, his two telegrams to Cranston, aides suggesting they meet with his aides to work out a format for television debates have received no answer yet.

If he is afraid to meet his opponent eyeball to eyeball, he shouldn't be in the campaign. There's no early reason why he should not want to debate his opponent," Rafferty told a news conference. "If Mr. Cranston wants to show up his opponent, what better way could he find than a series of statewide debates."

The meeting with newsmen preceded a fund-raising dinner for Rafferty at which Gov. Ronald Reagan was the featured speaker. Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., was to have attended the news conference with Rafferty, but he was detained at Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park, where he was with GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon.

SPEAKING about his campaign against former State Controller Cranston, Rafferty said:

"I haven't punched anybody in the nose. I'm not belligerent, bloodthirsty or violent as pictured by my opponent. What we need is a little more light and a little less heat in the campaign," Rafferty said.

Asked what part he thought members of the minority races would play in the campaign, Rafferty said he hopes he has their support. "I feel I deserve it," he added, pointing out that 13 per cent of his department is made up of minority personnel.

No Hoopla at Demo Convention

Jr., Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

BAILEY said the convention would honor the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the late Adlai E. Stevenson with memorials following nomination of candidates and before their acceptance speeches.

He said the Kennedy memorial would include film. He did not respond to a question on whether Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the late senator's brother, would take part.

The party chairman said nominating speeches and seconding speeches would be limited in time, but that the limits had not been set yet.

THE arrangements committee has not decided, he said, whether all candidates will be permitted to address the convention. Supporters of McCarthy have been insisting that their candidate be able to do so.

Meanwhile, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley offered to satisfy the needs of supporters of McCarthy and McGovern for places to meet during convention week.

Backers of McCarthy had charged Daley was denying them the use of Soldier Field and the auditorium theater even though the city had no other announced plans for the facilities.

IN BEHALF of the pro-McCarthy Coalition for an Open Convention, the American Civil Liberties Union sued in federal district court this week to force the Chicago Park District to permit use of Soldier Field or Grant Park for a rally Aug. 25, on the eve of the convention.

In telegrams to the two anti-administration candidates, the mayor said he was "personally interested in having the views and positions of all candidates at the Democratic convention thoroughly expounded and presented to the people of our nation and our city."

RUMORS have been rampant that the mayor wants to give a huge birthday party for Johnson at Soldier Field Aug. 27, two days after the day the coalition wants the stadium.

Daley said he had invited the President to Chicago. "We would prepare a birthday party for him" if he came, he added in response to a question.

Representatives of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam later confronted Bailey and asked for a meeting with the arrangements committee to seek their help in obtaining permits to demonstrate during convention week and to sleep in the city's parks and at the beaches.

BAILEY told reporters the committee had discussed this and agreed that locations should be provided for demonstrations. He said he would convey this to Mayor Daley, but that convention officials have no control over such permits.

A representative of the antiwar faction told Bailey, however, that it was not just permits they were interested in.

"We don't want the police to attack us while we're sleeping in the parks," said Tom Hayden, a former community organizer in Newark, N.J. Bailey commented that if Hayden took the possibility of police attacks seriously, he would too.

NIXON AND REAGAN A LA CART

Richard Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan appear to enjoy their ride in electric carts as they head for news conference following their Friday meeting in San Diego. Sen. George Murphy is in the cart behind Reagan; man riding with Nixon was not identified.

Nixon 'Mobbed' at Knott's

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Richard Nixon was nearly mobbed by a crowd of several thousand on his arrival at Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park at 6:55 p.m. Friday, after a motor trip from San Diego.

After mashing through the crowd, surrounded by Secret Service agents, and Buena Park police, the beaming Nixon made it to the farm's chicken dinner restaurant.

He was greeted there by Walter Knott, founder-owner of the famed resort.

NIXON dined in the center of the restaurant's main room amid some 600 others, including the newsmen, Secret Service agents and patrons of the place who were strangers to him — but who knew him.

With the candidate were his wife Pat, daughters Tricia and Julie, the latter's fiancé David Eisenhower, and the Jack Drowns of Rolling Hills.

The Nixon party was greeted by more hundreds of farm visitors as they left the restaurant for a tour of the fabled Ghost Town.

They stopped briefly at the Calico Print Shop, where that Western newspaper's headlines noted the Nixon visit.

The shop had also prepared another of its specialties — an oversize marriage license which bore the names "Julie and David."

The Nixons left at 8:25 p.m. for a quick visit to Disneyland.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the Republican vice presidential nominee, said Friday it's "fairly obvious" that Negroes are cool to his candidacy.

"I think my present image hasn't fully developed," Agnew told an airport news conference on his way to San Diego to meet with presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

"But I have tremendous faith in the fairness of the American people," Agnew said, adding that he will depend on mass communications to introduce him and his knowledge of urban affairs.

He promised to meet with Negro leaders in California to explain his position on race relations. But he didn't identify them. He said he has interviewed Negroes in his home state of Maryland.

7th Heart Attack for Ike

when he was shifted there from March Air Force Base in California following the first of the current series of four attacks. He was stricken April 29 at his winter home in Palm Desert, near Palm Springs, as he prepared to head for a summer at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

THE April 29 attack was the only one of the current series described as minor, and the doctors at Walter Reed have made a point of saying they had never put even that one in the minor category.

The first of the three recent major seizures came on June 15. He suffered what was called a myocardial infarction, a form of heart attack which damages the heart muscle as a result of either total or partial blockage of one of the branches of the coronary arteries which ordinarily supply oxygenated blood to the heart.

Eisenhower's heart attacks date back to June 1955 when, as president, he took seven weeks to recuperate. He recovered quickly enough to run for a second term in 1956.

HIS second major heart attack came in November

Richard M. Nixon, who served two terms as vice president under President Eisenhower, said Friday he was keeping close touch on the general's condition.

1965 while he was vacationing at the Augusta, Ga., National Golf Club. He had another attack of heart pains while hospitalized at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

The former president underwent surgery in 1966 to correct a gall-bladder condition and was hospitalized three times in 1967, twice for gastro-intestinal ailments and once for an enlarged prostate gland. In November 1957 he suffered a mild cerebral hemorrhage.

Eisenhower has seemed to bounce back after each seizure. He seemed well on the road to recovery when the June 15 attack hit him.

By July 18 he was well enough to hold a hospital room news conference to endorse his former vice president, Richard M. Nixon, for the Republican presidential nomination.

ON AUG. 5 he addressed the Republican National Convention by electronic hookup from the hospital, fully dressed and flashing his famous grin, but looking quite thin. The brief talk had been recorded on video tape half an hour before it was broadcast to the nation. Convention delegates got only the sound portion because the convention hall lacked facilities for the picture.

Then Eisenhower suffered another heart attack. But he seemed to be making such good progress by Aug. 13 that his doctors stopped issuing regular bulletins on his condition. But the doctors said his "convalescence is apt to be prolonged" because of his previous attacks.

Eisenhower ended his two terms in the White House in January 1961 and has been sharing his time between his Gettysburg farm, Palm Springs and Augusta.

Reagan Too Busy in State to Stump Nation for GOP

By AL EISELE
From Our National Bureau

SAN DIEGO — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday that legislative commitments in California would sharply limit the amount of nationwide campaigning he will be able to do for the Republican presidential ticket this fall.

Talking to reporters after meeting with Richard Nixon at Nixon's seaside retreat here, the man who challenged Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination said out-of-state stumping "will have to come second to the obligations in California."

Reagan said the California legislative session begins in September, "and I'll be there for that." However, he said, that he will still be able to take part in a sation campaign of television advertising which would be aimed throughout the country.

Reagan was introduced by Nixon after the two had met for about 45 minutes at Nixon's Bahia Hotel headquarters on Mission Bay here.

BOTH MEN were careful not to hint that there was any disagreement over Reagan's limited role in the campaign. However, before the meeting some Nixon aides indicated disappointment that Reagan couldn't lend his considerable appeal to a large campaign, especially in the South where he is a popular figure.

Nevertheless, Reagan ruled out a "barnstorming" type of campaign saying, "on the time factor alone, I think there's a very definite restriction."

Reagan and Nixon met with California Lt. Gov. Robert Finch, a close Nixon campaign advisor, and with Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., and Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., who had been handling the senate and house Republican campaigns in conjunction with Nixon's presidential campaign.

FOLLOWING their meeting, Nixon presented Reagan to reporters, calling him, "one of the greatest vote-getters in California history."

Reagan spoke for about 10 minutes. He said during his limited campaigning, he will reiterate his call for "a reduction of power and size of the central government," which he stressed during his unsuccessful bid for the GOP nomination.

Reagan dismissed criticisms of Nixon's running mate, Maryland's Governor Spiro Agnew, by some Negroes, calling it unfair and premature. Agnew has been criticized for endorsing firm measures against rioters.

Reagan suggested that Agnew's critics "have not looked at the record," adding that Agnew had campaigned against a "racist" Democratic opponent.

EARLIER in the day, Nixon met with a group of "surrogate candidates," GOP congressmen, senators and governors who will stand in for him at various campaign appearances this fall.

Nixon will wrap up his long work and relaxation session here Sunday, and will fly to Springfield, Ill., for a Monday appearance. He then goes to Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania for more campaigning and will arrive in New York at midweek.

Gov. John Volpe of Massachusetts, one of Nixon's troupe of stand-in campaigners, said here Friday he sees no signs of a Negro revolt against the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Volpe, conferring with the Republican presidential candidate, also told a news conference that if Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., were on the Democratic ticket "it would make our job, I think, more difficult" in the Northeast.

Volpe, Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel and Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., were among six prominent Republicans meeting with Nixon to discuss their new jobs as substitute speakers for the candidate. When Nixon can't make a speaking engagement, one of the stand-ins will go in his place.

Wallace Slates Major Speech in L.B. Arena

Third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace will make a major policy address before an expected 15,000 persons in Long Beach Arena Aug. 26, opening day of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

The former Alabama governor will also speak at a $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner Aug. 24 in Lafayette Hotel International Ballroom. In between the two appearances, Wallace will observe his 49th birthday Aug. 25.

Bob Walters, Southern California coordinator for Wallace, also announced from the candidate's Bell Gardens headquarters that Wallace's American Party national convention (it is known as the American Independent Party in California and some other states) may be held in mid-September in either Houston, Tex. or Montgomery, Ala.

Walters said Wallace may use the occasion of the Long Beach Arena rally, expected to be Wallace's "largest rally west of the Mississippi," to announce his selection of a vice presidential running mate. There is no admission charge for the Arena affair.

About 200 California delegates are expected to attend the two-day national convention of an estimated 5,000 party members, Walters said.

SCLC Votes to Work Against Nixon, Agnew

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Delegates to the annual convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference adopted a resolution Friday night urging Negro voter opposition to the Republican national ticket.

The resolution called on SCLC members and friends "to give no support to the Republican nominees."

The delegates also said they would back the Democratic ticket only if the party platform favors ending the Vietnam war now and moving to eliminate poverty immediately.

Earlier, delegates paid tribute to their fallen leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in a religious service of soul singing and preaching.

Dumke to Reagan: Reassess Stand

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke Friday appealed to Gov. Ronald Reagan to "reassess your former position" — which reduced by $25.6 million the new California State Colleges' operating budget.

The governor's final budget also cut faculty and non-teaching salary increases from a requested 16.5 per cent to 7.5 per cent.

Responding to Controller Houston I. Flournoy's recent report that California ended fiscal 1967-68 with a $381 million surplus, Dumke said at his Los Angeles headquarters:

"If this is a true reflection of the situation, we urgently request that bipartisan action be taken to restore monies needed for the state colleges."

Dumke neither asked for the restoration of any specific amount nor specified how money that now might be allocated would be spent.

He left little doubt, however, that he considers higher faculty salary increases to be of primary importance.

Budget cuts — from $44.7 million to $14.4 million — dashed hopes, the chancellor said, that the present statewide salary structure could be "made more competitive with comparable institutions across the country."

"Our difficulties," he continued, "in hiring qualified faculty to handle the 205,000 students we expect this fall are well known." He noted that more than 400 teaching positions for the coming year remain unfilled with only a month remaining before the new semester's start.

Dumke has not requested the legislature to override Reagan's vetoes — as did UC President Charles J. Hitch — because, as he said during a press conference last month, "It will be very painful, but we can live with this budget — if we have to."

Flournoy's figures now cause him to "think this is a different ballgame. If the state's fiscal situation has improved to this extent, I think the governor may well wish to reassess his previous position."

DUMKE

Reagan Signs 'Self-Respect' Welfare Measure Into Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday signed administration-backed legislation which is designed to turn welfare checks into pay checks by employing about 12,000 welfare recipients.

Assemblyman Eugene Chappie, R-Cool, author of the bill, said it "makes practical the hope expressed to me by many welfare recipients, that they want a fair chance to become self-respecting and self-supporting taxpayers members of our society."

The measure appropriates $20 million to support and train the welfare recipients. All job finding and training duties of the welfare system will be transferred to the department of employment.

"Under the bill thousands of persons will promptly start or continue training, or be employed by government or private industry as taxpayers citizens," Chappie said. "Welfare checks for these persons will be stopped."

Instead, the new employees or trainees will receive payroll checks.

Reagan also signed the first of six bills in a bipartisan job training and employment package intended to combat hard-core unemployment.

The measure by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, provides technical assistance to small businesses in low income areas.

The governor vetoed legislation by Assemblyman James Hayes, R-Long Beach, which would have let some judges remain on the bench after their 70th birthday without losing retirement benefits.

"The incentive retirement provisions of the judges' retirement law have proven to be an effective method of encouraging judges to retire at age 70," Reagan said.

A measure by Sen. George E. Danielson, D-Los Angeles, increasing the maximum limit of a Cal-Vet home loan from $15,000 to $20,000 was signed by Reagan. However, he vetoed a bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, which would have required the veterans affairs department to give a Cal-Vet loan holder an advance on his property taxes.

"The bill would require the department of veterans affairs to set aside approximately $25 million a year for tax loans," Reagan said. "This would result in 1,600 fewer home loans to California veterans."

The department advanced tax payments to Cal Vet loan holders until last year. The Reagan Administration changed its policy and required persons who held the loans to pay both their taxes for this year and taxes owed the department for last year.

Z'berg's bill would have required the department to continue its policy of advancing the tax payments to persons holding the loan who could not afford to meet the tax deadlines on time.

But administration officials said the change was necessary due to a shortage of funds available for loans to veterans returning from Vietnam.

The governor also signed a bill by Assemblyman Victor V. Veysey, R-Brawley, appropriating $50,000 in 1968-69 and $300,000 in 1969-70 and 1970-71 for local school districts to provide or expand work experience programs.

Legislature Called to Special Session

ter is that the Democratic leadership refused to make any real effort to produce meaningful tax reform.

"THEY always tied it to gimmicks that would have resulted in raising the cost of state government and I don't think that's what I was elected to do."

Reagan suggested at a news conference Tuesday that a meeting with legislative leaders, along with assurances that Senate-Assembly agreement will be reached, would be needed before he would call a special session in September.

"You will recall I asked for precisely such a meeting, either in Sacramento or in Miami, on the day of the precipitous and unprecedented attempt to adjourn the Legislature," Unruh said.

SENATE President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns, a Fresno Democrat, adjourned the Legislature Aug. 3 by signing a proclamation as acting governor while Reagan and Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch were in Miami Beach, Fla., for the Republican National Convention.

Unruh, claiming Burns' proclamation was illegal, called the Assembly back into session for two days before recessing the house until Sept. 9, the same day the Senate returns for a five-day session to consider overriding Reagan's vetoes.

Labor unions had been expected to go to court to see if the Assembly's unusual session was legal and whether the workmen's compensation and disability measures were actually given final approval.

BUT A Los Angeles attorney, Abe Levy, said no suit would be filed if the governor put the two matters on a special call. He said the unions do not want to take sides in the dispute between Reagan and Unruh, but merely want to clarify the legality of the bills.

Unruh said he thinks Reagan's stipulation that legislators be in "reasonable agreement" actually is a "a request for a de facto legislative session before a special session is called."

Unruh added in his letter that the Assembly approved three different property tax relief measures, all of which were killed in the Senate. One of them was Reagan's own proposal.

"IT NOW clearly appears, following the controller's revelation that the state had a $381-million surplus at the end of the fiscal year, that sufficient funds are available for these needed programs of property tax relief and school aid," Unruh said, adding, "Assembly leaders have long contended this was the case."

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy has reported the state had a cash surplus of $167 million, plus $194 million in reserve funds to keep the General Fund liquid, at the end of the fiscal year June 30.

Unruh has accused the Reagan administration of deliberately hiding and juggling figures to paint a bleak picture of the state's finances.

GEORGE Wallace, third-party candidate for president, gets kiss from comely lass at Chicago's Midway Airport as he stopped en route to Hammond, Ind., for speech.

Wallace Claims Gain in Midwest

HAMMOND, Ind. (UPI)

George C. Wallace, on a new vote-hunting foray into the North, predicted Friday his third party will capture the presidential electoral votes of Illinois and Indiana in November.

The former Alabama governor carried his quest for support into the steel-making, oil-refining industrial complex at the foot of Lake Michigan as the Illinois Electoral Board certified his candidacy for the general election ballot.

FATHER'S LAWYER CONFIDENT

Painter Boy Won't Have

Say in Where He Lives

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The father of 10-year-old Mark Painter will demand in court custody from the boy's Iowa grandparents and the boy won't have anything to say about whom he will live with, the father's lawyer said Friday.

Even as the lawyer spoke, a privately arranged meeting was taking place somewhere in San Francisco between the son of Harold Painter and the Rev. Clay Lumpkins of Ames, Iowa, sent out by the boy's maternal grandparents.

The grandmother, Mrs. Dwight Bannister, had said she wanted her Congregational minister to hear from Mark himself if he wanted to stay with his father and she would abide by that wish.

But Painter's lawyer, Robert Treuhart, told newsmen: "As far as I'm concerned, any member of the family or friend can visit the boy but the visit has nothing to do with the custody case."

Treuhart said custody must be settled in a court hearing sought by Painter and scheduled from Aug. 28 in Superior Court at Santa Cruz. He added:

"And the boy won't have anything to say about whom he wants to live with. Ask any 10-year-old boy 'who would you like to live with?' and he would answer Willie Mays or Willie McCovey (baseball stars of the San Francisco Giants).

"The father has the right

RESEARCH SHOWS

Firearms Outnumber U.S. Men

MENLO PARK (UPI) — City dwellers frightened by the possibility of renewed rioting have armed themselves with "more than one gun for every male citizen of any age, including infants," the Stanford Research Institute said Friday.

The study, partially financed by the Winchester and Remington weapon manufacturing firms, said gun sales during 1967 were twice that of 1963. It estimated the number of guns in private hands at between 115 and 200 million.

AMERICAN males between the ages of 14 and 65 probably average two guns each, the study said.

The institute said the increased gun sales were partially the result of "grossly exaggerated" reports of the amount of sniping and actual civilian use of firearms in urban riots.

The two worst riots of 1967 saw relatively little use of firearms by civilians, the report said.

Swordfish Shipment

Arrives From Japan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 100,000-pound shipment of frozen swordfish from Japan, the largest consignment of its kind to the west coast, arrived Friday aboard the Matsun Lines container ship Pacific Bunker.

The shipment came in four 24-foot refrigerated containers consigned to Consolidated Factors of Monterey for distribution to wholesalers in California.

of custody, not the grandparents or Mays or McCoveys. And we are going to court in Santa Cruz Aug. 28 to get custody."

After Mark's mother was killed in a car accident, the boy was sent to live with his maternal grandparents on a farm near Ames, Iowa. When the father remarried and asked return of his son, the grandparents won custody in an Iowa Supreme Court ruling. That court said the father, a writer-photographer, lived a Bohemian, party life that was not conducive to proper upbringing of the boy.

But the father, after Mark came out to California for a month's visit, filed the Santa Cruz court action, saying Mark did not want to return to Iowa and preferred to live with his father and stepmother at their home near Santa Cruz.

Treuhart said when the Rev. Mr. Lumpkins stepped off a plane at San Francisco International Airport he was met by a lawyer who identified himself as a representative of the Bannisters.

Treuhart, on hearing of this development, said "As far as I'm concerned, he (the Rev. Mr. Lumpkins) can see us in court."

But later arrangements were made for the minister to meet the boy.

"It will just be a friendly visit," Lumpkins said.

"I want to know how the boy is and how he is getting along. I have been in contact with Mr. Treuhart's office."

Treuhart said the minister also asked to be allowed to see the Painter home in the mountain resort of Brookdale, 55 miles south of San Francisco. The request was refused.

Q. How to get rid of rice paper trees? They're pushing our brick patio toward the sky. Nothing seems to stop them. We cut the mother plant down over one year ago. Mrs. C. L. Mattos.

A. Dig out the mother-plant stump and the main roots as far out as you can. Spray the new sucker leaves that appear with the herbicide you mentioned, but don't use it if they are sprouting in dichondra!

Q. My dichondra keeps getting brown spots which start about the size of a silver dollar. Within a few days it grows a foot or more in diameter. Sometimes the dead area becomes shape of half moon or other forms. I've tried mercury and also copper containing organics but to no avail. What stops the spots from growing larger is a mystery. It seems to get so big and stops. Sometimes three or four patches occur at the same time. When it does it is difficult to get new dichondra to grow again in same places for many months. Then, only a sparse covering.

A. Our 27-year-old dichondra lawn used to get similar kinds of spots about four years in a row. Accidentally and luckily, we discovered that regular periodic feedings every two or three months throughout the active growing season, plus deeper and less frequent waterings, prevented the fungus from attacking our lawn! The January feeding is the most important in order to give the lawn a good start for the new year. We believe an undernourished one is more susceptible to fungus infestation than a well-fed lawn. First, check lawn watering need by walking over it. If the pressed-down leaves don't spring up into normal position, lawn needs water. Don't water yet, if the leaves shortly spring back upright. Next, have your nurseryman recommend a turf fungicide that controls several types of fungus. Apply proper amount as recommended. Top-dress the thin areas with a quality lawn-grade steer manure or a fine mulch material about one quarter inch thick, daily keep moist till dichondra seeds have sprouted. (We sincerely hope you DON'T annually apply premoistened sphagnum peat moss as a top dressing. This material doesn't break down easily on soil surface. It tends to choke out dichondra from reseeding, also lawn needs much more water to soak through it into the lawn soil. Mixed well throughout the soil it is a good organic material, because it eventually breaks down into a natural humus form.)

Reaction

I read where a C. R. Perion asked you for information on transplanting carnations. You said you couldn't transplant from the ground to another area. Well, you are wrong, my friend. That is the only way I transplant mine and I have good luck by slipping them. Thought you might like to know this. Mrs. T. A. McLenaghan.

Thank you for your helpfulness, Mrs. McLenaghan. Gardeners have learned there's always one who unknowingly or experimentally does something gardenwise that is considered impossible to do. We checked with Bill Ishizu of Sunnyslope Chrysanthemum Gardens in San Gabriel, who is an authority not only on mums, but carnations too. He agrees, "Carnations don't respond to transplanting unless young." When asked what "young" meant he replied, "When they've been in the ground only several months." He continued, "Sometimes an older plant may be transplanted if the plant is dug with a large ball of earth and the soil isn't disturbed around the roots."

2 New Exhibit Classes Added at Dahlia Show

Two new exhibit classes will be added to this year's annual dahlia show of the Southern California Dahlia Society, Aug. 24 and 25 in Simms Park Community Building, Bellflower.

One new category, the "Green Thumbers Class," is for backyard dahlia growers who have never exhibited in a show or do not belong to a dahlia society. Growers may bring several blooms, each different, to display in competition for a trophy and ribbons.

The second new class, the "Belle of Bellflower," is open to all amateur growers. Dahlias entered in this category must be large "A" size, at least eight inches in diameter. They may be of any color or variety. Winner will receive the Mayor's Trophy, awarded by Bellflower Mayor Ray T. Smith. Hours of the show are 2 to 8 p.m. Aug. 24 and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 25.

Bougainvilleas are grown as vines to screen a corner of the house; trained to supports to provide privacy; or allowed to grow over the ground on banks and slopes. All provide showy masses of color during their many months of blooming.

George and Marguerite Moore, two of our many garden column readers, cleverly trained a Barbara Karst Bougainvillea with masses of brilliant red flower bracts to cover a corner of their patio. The vine fits that corner area as though it were "tailor-made" for it with minimum work involved to train it.

One of the heavier frosts last winter froze it back some, but because the vine recommend the tin container should be cut down on two sides, then tied together and set into the ground! Make sure the top of the root ball is level with the surrounding ground, which will leave several inches of the can above ground. Finally the tin breaks down in the ground.

If gardener is very careful not to break the ball of roots he can plant it without the can. The roots have freedom to grow quickly into the surrounding soil.

When we visited the Caribbean, we saw a pure white bougainvillea smothering a large portion of the red tile roof of a building a few miles out from Port Au Prince, Haiti. This was one of the most eye-catching nursery.

GARDENER who is planning to set out a ground cover should do it soon, for quick rooting before cold weather.

An ivy ground cover with shiny leaves is attractive by itself. However, the gardener could make it more interesting and colorful for several months of each year if he planted some pink Mexican primroses in among the ivy. These primroses are hardy and tough and will more than hold their own against the vigorous ivy roots.

A young planting of junipers will look gay and colorful with a planting of petunias between the junipers. The petunias fill in the bare spaces and furnish showy flowers for several months.

THERE'S still time, too, to plant St. Augustine into a grass lawn. Gardener should mow the lawn close to the soil, soak the lawn well. Day or two later dump the flat of St. Augustine upside down, tear the matted runner branches apart, set out the sprigs three-to-four inches apart. "Sprig" means a portion of the runner branch with a joint or a root or two on it. Jab a screwdriver on a slight slant about an inch into the lawn. Poke the joint or roots into the hole, firm with fingers. Top dress with one sack of quality lawn-grade steer manure per each 200 square feet of lawn.

Keep moist daily. Apply weak solution of liquid fertilizer at two-to-three-week intervals about six times. Mow lawn as it needs it.

HHH 450 Votes Short of Victory

Associated Press
In the week since he announced his active candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. George S. McGovern has picked up only a handful of first-ballot supporters. The Associated Press poll showed Friday.

Nine days before the Democratic convention is scheduled to open in Chicago, the AP poll, based on primary results, pledges and AP delegate checks, shows Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey still more than 450 votes away from the 1,312 needed for the nomination.

THE POLL gives Humphrey 841½ first-ballot votes to 450½ for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and 32½ for McGovern, including 20 of 26 from South Dakota. Another 774½ are uncommitted, 510 are held by favorite sons and 13 are scattered elsewhere. The poll only includes solid support, not delegates leaning to a candidate.

In picking up 17 votes since Tuesday, Humphrey's major gain was 12 through a new check in New York. McCarthy, however, gained 5½ votes there. A new tally of the 174-vote California delegation added two to the Humphrey total, four to McCarthy's and five to McGovern's. But 142 California delegates, supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, remain uncommitted.

Meanwhile a "Humphrey for President" official said Friday he believes the vice president will win the Democratic presidential nomination without California's convention votes.

ROBERT L. COATE of San Francisco denied that Hubert Humphrey forces are pressuring the delegation chairman, state Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, to swing the state's 174 votes to Humphrey. "There is nobody associated with Humphrey who believes Jesse can deliver that delegation any place," said Coate, Humphrey's Northern California campaign director. "This will simply be another national convention where the California delegation watches the country go by."

An Associated Press poll this week showed only 32 firm California votes for any candidate, including nine for Humphrey. The rest of the delegation, originally pledged to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is uncommitted.

Daley Praise Opens Way to LBJ Race

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley said Friday that Lyndon B. Johnson has been a great president — and stirred up questions about whether the President might run for another term.

Daley, the No. 1 Democrat in Illinois, warmly defended the President's peace efforts — just as he had 24 hours earlier at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield. The mayor was asked if there is any chance that Johnson might be nominated. "I wouldn't know," the mayor replied.

DALEY recalled that Johnson had said he was not a candidate, and added: "I don't speak for the President."

A reporter then asked if the mayor hopes Johnson will be a candidate. "He's been a great president," Daley said.

CROWD SURROUNDS HUBERT HUMPHREY IN PITTSBURGH

Nixon-Dixie Group Tabbed 'Nixiecrats' by Humphrey

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hubert Humphrey said Friday that Richard M. Nixon and the Dixiecrats of the "Old South" had forged a new party — "The Nixiecrats."

This, the vice president told the United Federation of Postal Workers, was the spinoff of the Republican convention at Miami Beach.

There, Humphrey said, the Republican nominee "identified himself with the Old South, with that Dixiecrat group."

HUMPHREY specifically referred to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who was a leader when Southerners bolted the Democratic party in 1948, and who became the presidential candidate of the Dixiecrats.

Earlier Friday, in a question and answer session with Pennsylvania delegates to the Democratic convention, Humphrey said he, too, would appeal to the South but to the South of a "new spirit."

Humphrey expressed beliefs that Nixon turned to the "old" south when he picked Maryland Governor Spiro Agnew as his running mate. Humphrey said that while he was looking to the "new" south, he was not looking there for a running mate.

NIXON, Humphrey said, "called upon the midnight of the South. I'm going to call on its dawn."

Humphrey voiced confidence that he would have enough votes to win the Democratic nomination.

Daley, who has not announced whom he favors for the presidential nomination, also was asked if there have been any preparations for celebrating President Johnson's 60th birthday anniversary in Chicago Aug. 27.

"No," the mayor replied. He said he had invited the President a week ago, but had not heard from him.

Democratic nomination on the first ballot. But he said he had been around in politics long enough to know that sometimes what appeared to be happening didn't happen.

Humphrey said McCarthy's naming of the kind of cabinet he would choose was like throwing in the towel. McCarthy revealed Thursday night a list of men he might appoint to his cabinet, including Sen. J. W. Fulbright as a possible secretary of state and John W. Gardner, former secretary of health, education and welfare, as secretary of defense.

Humphrey was asked whether he, too, had a list of potential cabinet members.

"NO, I HAVEN'T," said Humphrey. "I recall that Barry Goldwater had one. I thought that was sort of a sign he had tossed in the towel. He just wanted to mention the names of some friends."

Humphrey said, "If I am elected, I will then start to pick a cabinet. I don't think

McGovern Likes Gene for 2nd Spot at Least

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George McGovern says he hopes Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey — if nominated for the presidency by the Democrats — will consider Sen. Eugene McCarthy as his running mate.

McGovern, who declared himself a presidential contender last week, ruled himself out for the vice presidential spot unless called by the convention.

Of his chances at the Democratic convention in Chicago Aug. 26-29, the South Dakotan said in an interview Friday he believes he stands a better chance of beating Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon in November than he does of winning the Democratic nomination. He pledges his support to whoever is the Democratic candidate against Nixon. "Should Humphrey win in Chicago, McGovern said, the vice president would have the problem of winning support of younger voters and older people 'who are disillusioned about our course in Vietnam and the neglect of our problems at home.'"

"So I would hope that somebody like Sen. McCarthy would be picked as the running mate if Vice President Humphrey wins the nomination," he said.

Of others who might be considered, he mentioned Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.

3 Favorite Sons Free Delegates

CHICAGO (UPI) — Favorite son Sen. Stephen Young of Ohio and a potential Indiana favorite son, Sen. Birch Bayh, followed the lead of Iowa Gov. Harold E. Hughes Friday and took themselves out of the running for presidential nominations at the Democratic National Convention.

Their actions left the 115-man Ohio delegation and the 63-vote Indiana group free to vote as they please. The moves appeared to strengthen the first-ballot hand of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in the conclave which opens Aug. 26.

YOUNG said in Washington, "To me it is a matter of integrity that a delegate not be bound under existing circumstances to a favorite son."

"All Ohio delegates are, therefore, free to vote and should vote, as they choose on the first ballot and any subsequent ballots," he said.

More than half of the Ohio delegation had been reported leaning toward Humphrey. Young, who once was a supporter of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the nomination, said his own vote would be cast for a candidate "who pledges immediate unconditional halting of the bombing of North Vietnam and advocates an honorable withdrawal from South Vietnam."

With no favorite son to bind the delegation, indications were that all but six of Indiana's first-ballot votes would go to Humphrey, with McCarthy gathering in the rest.

A United Press International recheck of the Iowa delegation after Hughes' withdrawal Thursday as a favorite son showed Humphrey had increased his apparent first-ballot strength from 9½ to 16 and McCarthy had gained 2½ votes to a total of 9½.

Georgia Delegate Challenge 'Critical,' McCarthy Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says a battle over the seating of a Georgia delegation will be "the critical test" of the Democratic National Convention.

McCarthy told newsmen Friday he may stage an all out battle — perhaps on the convention floor — to win acceptance of the Loyal National Democrats over the hand-picked delegation of Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox.

The Georgia fight is one of 17 contests pending before the convention's credentials committee which opens hearings Monday in Chicago.

The Loyal Democrats, offshoot of the Georgia Democratic Forum, are throwing most of their support to McCarthy's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Led by Julian Bond, the delegation is made up of Negroes and whites selected at a Macon convention. Maddox, who has hinted at entering the race for the Democratic nomination, will lead a delegation selected by his party leaders.

Other delegate battles will pit McCarthy forces against backers of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, but McCarthy singled out the Georgia struggle.

"THIS will be the critical test of whether the convention will be truly representative," McCarthy said. "It will either end up on the side of Maddox or the side of integrity."

McCarthy said he was considering taking the issue to the floor if Bond's group is rejected by the credentials committee. He said the Bond forces represent the Democratic Party — both blacks and whites — in Georgia while the other group is composed strictly of Maddox men. Bond, a Negro, was prevented from taking his seat after election to the Georgia legislature because of his opposition to the Vietnam War.

On Vietnam, McCarthy said a total halt in bombing of the north was a "secondary" tactical question which had little real bearing on peace negotiations in Paris. The central issue, he SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The delegate vote strength of U.S. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy grew to at least 83 in New York State Friday. He gained at least 5½ votes as the Democratic State Committee voted overwhelmingly to increase Negro and Puerto Rican representation.

Hubert Humphrey has had public pledges of 40 New York votes.

Commutation 'Humane,' Says Kirschke Attorney

two sisters was in court. One sister visited him in jail the night before.

On hand, however, to hear the outcome was one of Kirschke's defense witnesses, Dr. William Harper, a criminalist and longtime friend. Also in the crowded spectator section were two investigators from the attorney general's office who had worked on the case.

Kirschke's restless actions during the brief statements made by the judge were in direct contrast to the man who prosecuted him successfully — Assistant Attorney General Albert Harris.

Harris, whose lack of theatrics during the trial was also in direct contrast to the defense attorneys hired by Kirschke, sat quietly, hands folded on the counsel table. He stared at the table during the entire proceedings.

When the hearing ended, and television and newspaper cameramen and reporters converged on Kirschke, Harris quietly headed for the judge's chambers "to say goodbye."

He said he "kind of expected" the commutation in the sentence from death to life imprisonment.

"But I think it was fair," Kirschke's statements to newsmen who pressed around were different.

"I have no particular comment to make on my reaction to what's happened," the former deputy district attorney said, his hands folded in his lap.

"As to whether he was surprised by the hearing:

"Ever since April 10, 1967, when I was stopped on my way to my Downey office, looked down the barrel of three shotguns and learned my wife was dead... nothing since then has surprised me."

REMINDED by one newsmen that he had once asked for the death penalty in his "freedom or death" plea to the jury, Kirschke sidestepped an answer by remarking that he was "not sure that's a fair paraphrasing of my statement."

ATTORNEY DAVIS, KIRSCHKE CONFER

However, he did add that he "didn't feel any different now (with the death sentence lifted) than I did a half hour ago."

Kirschke's latest attorney, San Francisco counsel George Davis, who also defended Caryl Chessman in his futile appeal for life, interrupted his client to explain to newsmen:

"I think Jack is just as dead now as when the death penalty was in effect... you're dead when you're waiting for a reversal."

And a reversal, Davis added, he expects to get.

"This is one conviction which never should have happened... which will be reversed, and we've taken the first step by getting it reduced to life imprisonment."

"There's nothing more absurd than the death penalty in this case."

"Denial of a new trial," the long-haired attorney told newsmen, "was not unexpected. I can't think of a case where a judge has had the courage or objectivity to order a new trial after sitting through the first trial making all the decisions and rulings."

HE LATER added of the judge's actions: "It was a compassionate and humane act on the part of Judge Parker, and I am happy at the result because I am, and have been, so unalterably opposed to the death penalty."

Davis said he will file a formal notice of appeal, and expects a ruling from the District Court of Appeals in 12 to 18 months.

He asked for 15 minutes in the courtroom holding cell to talk to Kirschke before he was taken back to County Jail.

From the jail, Kirschke was to be delivered to the Department of Corrections for imprisonment.

The probation report filed with the judge by Deputy Probation Officer Fred Eisman had recommended that Kirschke not be granted probation. Eisman said Kirschke "made categorical denials of guilt to probation officers."

THE FORMER prosecutor, the probation report stated, "advised there is nothing he can say about these murders, since he was not present when they took place."

"He is adamant in his insistence of his innocence," Eisman reported.

The probation officer described Kirschke's reputation before the murders as "an excellent one."

"The defendant gave no indication of a potential for this type of criminal act," Eisman said.

"The aggravated nature of the offense was such that even aside from the defendant's questionable legal eligibility for probation, such a disposition cannot be considered," Eisman concluded in his report to Judge Parker.

From the county jail, Kirschke will be delivered to the State Correctional Institution in Chino for processing into the state prison system. He could be here about 90 days.

FROM THERE, he could go either to San Quentin or Folsom, maximum security prisons.

Kirschke, however, possibly could be sent to a minimum-security institution because of his history before the murders.

The concern will be less as to any threat Kirschke could pose than the threat posed by persons he may have helped send to prison.

Davis, asked whether he will remain as Kirschke's attorney, said, "as of now, I hope to carry through... but time changes things in men's minds and nobody should be committed to a thing like this."

Davis, apparently was referring to Kirschke's changeable mind when it comes to attorneys.

But another mind apparently was being changed in the courtroom during the proceedings.

during his "take-over" of the defense as the woman spectator who sat glowering at him during the trial hoping he would die, was either misunderstood by Kirschke or had changed her mind.

"I think the judge did him dirt," she said in the courtroom following the commutation.

"She shoulda let him go. He did it, but those two (referring to Kirschke's wife, Elaine, and her lover, Bill Drankhan) deserved to die."

Year Makes Cub Tiger in Circus League

A year makes a big difference in a tiger cub's life, as shown by these handsome cubs from the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. They first had their pictures taken a year ago, when they visited Long Beach with the circus while only a few weeks old. Friday, five of the tigers were back in town (two of their brothers died during the year) and schooling for future performances under trainer Charlie Baumann. They're not quite ready for the ring—but Baumann's prodding, words—and gestures—of command, plus affectionate pats and rewarding tidbits, will produce big-league Bengalese cats when the 99th edition of "The Greatest Show on Earth" comes to the International City in 1969. Meantime, Baumann and his major league Bengals are center-ring attractions in this year's star-spangled circus, which has matinee performances at 2:30 p.m. today and Sunday, an evening show at 8 tonight and concluding show at 6 p.m. Sunday—all at Long Beach Arena. $100,000 L.B. Job Program Canceled

By THOMAS EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Long Beach Economic Opportunities Commission officials Friday said the U.S. Labor Department eliminated the fledgling $100,000 New Careers employment program.

New Careers, brainchild of the Labor Department's Bureau Work Training Project, was designed to recruit hard-core unemployed and train them for civil service positions.

Carl P. Wallace, local EOC executive director, blamed the cutback on laxity in the Los Angeles-based Economic Youth Opportunities Agency, distribution control center for job-training funds in Los Angeles County.

WALLACE said the Labor Department's August 12 deadline to submit final plans for the New Careers project was successfully met by the Long Beach agency, but EYOA failed to meet deadline requirements.

The decision to terminate the project was "arbitrarily decided by someone who doesn't have any feeling for people," Wallace said, lashing out at John F. Otero, EYOA acting regional director.

New Careers in Long Beach affects 26 hard-core jobless and 11 administrative personnel. Wallace said the termination directive ordered EOC to locate jobs for them by September 1, an order he deemed "virtually impossible."

HE EXPRESSED fears the project's elimination will severely affect other job training programs in Long Beach, because funds earmarked for other programs were channeled into New Careers to ensure success.

The Labor Department allowed six months for plan development and Wallace noted over 200 persons were placed on the job training waiting list during the period.

Long Beach New Careers Program Director Jim Wilson indicated the possibility of a communications breakdown between the federal government and the ghetto over what he considered "too many" broken promises.

"These people have been led to believe they have some hope to attain self-respect and dignity on their own," Wilson said, "but now there is nothing left."

He said the attitude in the Negro community over the termination could be summed up in the statement "This is what we've been getting all of our lives."

WALLACE said he is challenging the decision with the aid of Long Beach City officials. He said: "The city is exploring the situation, and Mayor Edwin Wade contacted Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz to have the decision reversed."

He criticized federal officials for not channeling poverty funds directly into Long Beach. "We were assured in Washington earlier this year that we would be funded separately."

"Washington views Long Beach as part of Los Angeles even though we're a separate entity," Wallace said.

"We've always had to operate in the shadow of Los Angeles, and in this case we are being penalized for EYOA mistakes."

ON BELMONT PIER

L.B. Mini-Anglers Fish Up a Storm

More than 1,000 Long Beach area small fry jammed Belmont Pier Friday for the 14th Annual All-City Fishing Rodeo, reeling in fish and other denizens of the deep in wholesale lots.

Co-sponsored by the city's Recreation Department and the Southern California Tuna Club, the Derby drew 400 more anglers than last year.

Trophies to boy and girl for largest fish went to Ronald Adkinson, 14, of 910 Cerritos Ave., who reeled in a 2 lb., 11 oz. bonito, and to Kathy Yarnbowicz, 13, of 4114 Vista St., who snagged a 2 lb., 12 oz. stingray.

The Pat Tannehill Perpetual Trophy for best sportsmanship went to 11-year-old Greg Stevenson, of 2402 Dollar St., Lakewood.

"He caught one of everything Friday," Stan Penland, special activities supervisor for the Recreation Department, said, "but nothing big enough to win a trophy."

Most unusual fish taken Friday was an ugly bullhead — described by Penland as looking "like an oversized tadpole" — although a sea cucumber was a close runner-up.

Contributors to the Derby included Fred Austin, Beckley's Ice Cream, Coca-Cola, the Independent Press-Telegram, Masterson Scaffolding, Mickey's Snack Shop and Trophies Inc., of Long Beach.

Johnny Miller Sandwiches provided free refreshments for helpers, while other contributors included Seaside Printing Co., and W.O.W. Live Bait Co.

All needs of the Derby not covered by contributions were taken care of by June and Art Ascolesi, proprietors of Belmont Pier Inc.

Rep. Clawson Hurt in Crash

Republican Congressman Delwin M. Clawson received head abrasions Friday when his car was totally wrecked near his Downey office in a collision with a snack delivery van driven by a Norwalk man.

The 54-year-old congressman was taken by ambulance to Downey Community Hospital, where he was released after X-raying and treatment for two abrasions.

Council Ends Long Tax-Beef Session

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

The City Council — sitting as a Board of Equalization — ended hearings Friday into taxpayer complaints of excessive property assessments.

The hearings began Monday morning and ended late Friday. City Hall observers said it was one of the longest such hearings on record.

About 80 persons appeared before the board to ask reduced assessments, and the council took virtually all of the requests under advisement.

City Clerk Margaret Moore said the panel will convene Thursday morning to begin making its decisions. The petitioners will be notified shortly thereafter.

Officials said the pattern of complaints appeared to differ little from previous years. The one exception may have been the complaints of two real estate men who, between them, own several pieces of Central Area property.

The men are Gerald LaRouche, owner of Hull Realty, and Roy Marion, who works for the firm.

Marion protested against assessment on a piece of property at 1411-13 E. 16th Street, saying the property had been purchased less than two months ago — for $21,500 — but was appraised by the tax assessor's office in excess of that figure.

In his brief, he said there had been a deterioration of values in the area over the last three years.

LaRouche asked for reduced assessments on six properties in the area. In each case he cited what he said were poor lending conditions in the area, blaming them largely on a tight money market.

"Property values in this area are down due to lack of financing for new sales," he told the board.

The realtor's properties are at 842 E. 10th St.; 1725 Cerritos Ave.; 1378 Lewis Ave.; 1709 Cerritos; 1388 Lewis, and 1727 Cerritos.

In his petition, LaRouche said one lot had been appraised by the assessor's office for $30,000, but that the property sold earlier this year for approximately $19,000.

Two tax assessors, commenting privately, conceded residential loans may be difficult to get in the area, and said uncertainty over future zoning could be an important reason.

In any event, an aide in the city manager's office said assessments normally take market conditions into consideration.

Both the City Planning Commission and the City Council are studying plans for rezoning the Central Area with a view to upgrading the district.

City officials feel once the area is reclassified primarily for residential use, federal agencies will willingly finance home and home improvement loans.

Right now, they say, the government is reluctant to advance such loans in the area because commercial firms can readily move into what are now residential sections.

La Palma Center Bid Meet Slated

By BARBARA KNESIS
Staff Writer

The Orange County-La Palma Civic Center Authority will meet Monday night to consider a dozen bids on construction of new civic facilities for La Palma.

The bids, which range from a low of $584,600 to a high of $660,024, are well over city estimates of $450,000, leading to speculation the low bid of Crosby Construction Co. of Costa Mesa may be rejected or at least renegotiated.

The city staff and attorney will make their reports at 7 p.m. during a meeting in John F. Kennedy High School. The city council, which has the power to veto the authority, will meet a half-hour later at the same place.

The civic center project, plagued with problems since its conception, is to include a city hall, police and fire station facilities.

Prime objection of citizens has been the proposed leaseback method of financing.

In April, residents approved an initiative outlawing such a financing plan, and councilmen swung toward a joint power financing arrangement.

Some dissatisfied residents attempted an unsuccessful recall. They said they felt that an issue of such magnitude should go directly to the people through a bond-issue election.

La Palma City Manager Burton Wesenberg said that, at best, construction on the project could begin the latter part of September "but that is being optimistic."

It's Enough to Make Guy Go Straight

Billy James Crutchfield, 21, of Modesto, must be sitting in Harbor Division Jail today reflecting on the truth in the adage "crime doesn't pay."

Crutchfield was arrested by a gate guard at Fort MacArthur in San Pedro Friday, when he drove into the Army compound in a car stolen more than a week ago in Bakersfield from its owner Lloyd Templeton, Harbor Division police said.

He was nabbed by the Pacific Street gate guard, Larry Wild, who detained him until police arrived.

Wild, officers said, is Templeton's next door neighbor in Bakersfield, and said he recognized the car immediately.

Police said only the license plates had been changed on the auto.

Crutchfield, stationed at the fort, was booked on suspicion of grand theft.

Lakewood YMCA

'Social' on Sunday

Lakewood YMCA will hold an old-fashioned Ice Cream Social Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. at its headquarters building, 5425 Centralia Ave.

Entertainment will be provided by the Long Beach Concert Band and Barber Shop Quartet singers.

'NEW HIRE'

Harry C. Bond was hired Friday, on two-year contract at $20,000 annual salary, as city manager of Paramount. He held a similar post at Lawndale and succeeds M. D. McKeown, who resigned.

2 Suspects Seized in Bathtub Slaying

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A man and a woman sought in the bathtub homicide slaying of a 49-year-old man at the Dare-U Inn Motel in Carson were arrested Friday on a Lancaster highway.

A Highway Patrolman spotted the suspects' auto from a radio description and took Charles Campbell, 34, of Likely, Calif., Mrs. Josephine Hernandez, wife of the dead man, and four of the six Hernandez children into custody.

Campbell and the woman were booked on suspicion of murdering Anthony Garcia Hernandez, whose fully clothed body was found Thursday night in a half-filled bathtub in the motel at 17331 S. Main St.

Lt. Norman Hamilton of the sheriff's homicide detail said Mrs. Hernandez made an appointment to meet her husband at the motel to discuss his support payments for the children.

Hernandez, of 21104 S. Normandie Ave., Carson, checked into the motel at 3 p.m., and left word at the desk that he was to be awakened at 9 p.m.

When the manager went to arouse Hernandez, he found him dead.

Lt. Hamilton said the victim had been beaten to death with a smashed table lamp.

Detectives said Campbell, jailed with Mrs. Hernandez at the Antelope Valley sheriff's station, had cuts and scratches on his face. A loaded .22-caliber revolver was found in the glove compartment of the car, they said.

The four children, Tony, 16; Theodore, 15; Ricardo, 12, and Joseph, 10, were taken into juvenile custody.

Lt. Hamilton said Hernandez had been making support payments to the county probation department for his family.

Parking Lot Improvements Cost Money!

It costs lots of money to improve parking lots, Orange County learned Friday.

Supervisors said the Pasadena firm of Mallcraft Inc., received a work order for paving a parking lot at the new Court House, on a bid of $306,000.

The low bidder, Ray Wilson, of Los Angeles, pleaded his $290,000 figure was in error and was permitted to withdraw.

More parking areas at the Orange County Airport, where tie-downs also will be improved, will cost an estimated $139,500.

WILLIAM REDI BLOOM, I.P.T. PRINTER, DIES AT 94

William Redi (Bill) Bloom, who worked as a printer for 60 years — 25 of them for the Independent Press-Telegram — died Friday in Long Beach.

Bloom, 94, of 416 Orange Ave., was one of the oldest active members in the International Typographical Union.

During his career, he was marooned for four days in the Dayton Journal building during the 1913 Ohio floods, worked through a cyclone at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and was at work in the Press-Telegram backshop when the 1933 earthquake struck Long Beach.

Before coming to Long Beach, Bloom, an itinerant printer, worked on about 20 newspapers from the time he began as an apprentice on the weekly Maysville, Ky., paper.

A charter member of the Muncie, Ind., I.T.U., established in 1896, Bloom had been a delegate to four international conventions.

He is survived by his wife, Nora. No services are scheduled, according to Westminster Mortuary.

90% of Long Beach Water Polluted, Says Ecologist

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

President Johnson has said one third of all the water in the United States is contaminated.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said two thirds of the water in New York State is contaminated.

Until Harold P. Koenig came along, no one had bothered to estimate how much of the water consumed by Long Beach area citizens is contaminated.

Koenig, president of Florida's Ecological Science Corporation, ended the suspense in a hurry.

"Probably as much as 90 percent of the water you use in Long Beach is contaminated," he said in an interview, without batting an eye.

"You may feel that's a high figure. It's not. I'm convinced a good 90 percent of all of America's water is so badly contaminated it is unfit to drink."

Long Beach has officially asked the Los Angeles Regional Water Quality Control Board to upgrade water standards to the level of oxygen parts per million sufficient to support fish life. Most marine life avoids coastal and channel waters, because they are unable to live in them.

"If the fish won't swim there," Koenig asked, "why would people want to do so?"

But swimming is optional, while drinking water is not.

"If you saw a bacterial count of the water that comes out of your kitchen faucet, you probably wouldn't touch another drop," he said.

Water supplies previously considered fit for human consumption pass tests on cleanliness only because the tests are either loosely structured, or because the people making examinations are not aware of what they are looking for, Koenig added.

"What is happening is that the delicate ecological balance — which nature took centuries to establish — is being turned upside down, he said.

Today's programs to combat pollution of environment, Koenig said, is akin to "putting band-aids on severed arms — while continuing to cut off more arms."

James Michener's best-selling novel "Hawaii" painted a picture of 19th Century American missionaries who married a tropical paradise by forcing hapless natives into the rigid molds of New England Calvinism. Last week a different scenario emerged when two Maryknoll priests were suspended for alleged involvement in a nationalist guerrilla movement in Guatemala.

The priests, Thomas and Arthur Melville, who are brothers, were among nine members of the mission order — five priests and four nuns — who were said to have met with pro-Castro guerrilla forces and made plans to smuggle light arms into the country.

The disclosure dramatized recent changes in the concept of the missionary, including an increased willingness to work for social and even political change.

During the great missionary movement of the 19th Century, missionaries in areas such as Africa were primarily interested in conversions. This, together with their secondary goals of education and the bringing of "civilization," made them the natural allies of the colonial interests that provided political and social stability.

In recent years a change has taken place in the philosophy of mission in the

Such developments, however, pose new problems in times of stress. On the one hand foreign missionaries recognize that they are guests of the government and that there are probably fellow Christians on both sides of any political struggle. As Christians, they also tend to regard violence as a last resort.

On the other hand, missionaries also find that in some cases serving the poor probably means working for social change.

Thus American missionaries are admitted to most countries today, it is on the basis that they possess educational or other skills needed by the local government.

Rev. William J. Davis, director of research for Jesuit missions, said the trend is toward "cooperation with secular agencies on the basis of a broad spirit of ecumenism."

Jesuit missionaries can thus be found doing sociological research for the government of the Ivory Coast and shedding religious garb to teach in state universities in Ethiopia.

When missionaries are admitted to most countries today, it is on the basis that they possess educational or other skills needed by the local government.

Tension Build-up Can Be Remedied

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

To relieve tension build-up a business man writes that he takes time out from the job and drives to a peaceful spot along the shore of a lake.

"But," he declares, "real peace comes not altogether from the beauties of the scene but also from my 'mental medicine chest'."

He means he has stored up in mind healing words from the Scriptures and other spiritual thoughts that he likes. Sitting by that calm expanse of water he "reaches" into his mind out of that mental medicine chest a healing thought such as the following:

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee." Or, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help." He meditates on such statements for half an hour or until nerves and mind get quiet — then returns to the office relaxed.

Men find peace in other ways. Music has power to heal, not only "the savage breast," but what is perhaps even more difficult, the agitated mind.

Peace is found by some before a cabin fireplace deep in the woods. What is it about a fire that brings a sense of peace?

I remember the first time flickering shadows of a wood fire fell upon the face of our first child. The curious thought came that for the first time she was feeling fire against her cheek, and that in old age she would warm her hands and dream as flames roared upward. Cracking logs, the pungent odor of wood smoke, the serenity of a room lighted by dancing shadows of firelight on its walls does indeed reduce tension and induce peace of mind.

There is a feeling of peace in watching the sea rolling and tossing, drawing back only to surge with enormous power against the rocks, roaring in and pulling out.

Peace is felt on a soft summer day in a flower-decked meadow or on a breeze-swept hill. Water washing gently on soft shores of sand, or babbling in a brook, sings a song of peacefulness. Light whispers of the wind in tall and ancient pine trees, the buzzing of bees in a meadow in deep summer, the coloration of leaves in autumn, an October moon sailing high — all can bring peace of the mind. Nature is designed, not only to sustain man, but to soothe him as well.

One day I chatted with a friend in a great grove of old live oaks. The live oak, ancient and gnarled, its moss trailing down suggests venerable men with long beards. The sand of the forest floor that day gleamed white and by the grove a gem-like lake shone in the sunlight.

Enormous azalea bushes bloomed, a riot of color which golden sunlight splashed down through a lacy roof formed by the live oaks. The air was permeated with the scent of range blossoms.

My friend, highly sensitive to all this beauty, exclaimed, "Look at the way the sun sifts and falls through those branches. Notice how it lies softly on the white sand warming it into life. See the glint of sun on dancing water. Sense the stillness trembling in the air."

I turned and looked into his sightless eyes. Blind though he was he had described the natural beauty around us better than most could with eyes that have sight.

I was reminded of a keen insight made to me recently by my old friend, famed merchant J. C. Penney, now 93 years old and troubled some by his eyes: "My eyesight is failing but my vision is increasing."

Impressively our sightless friend continued as we stood amidst the live oaks: "My mind is blooded with peace. And though I may be sightless for the rest of my life, still I am happy and content."

"And," he added, "anyone can live with any adversity when he makes up his mind to. When he makes peace with life as it is, then peace comes to him. I am at peace with the world and with myself."

He contrasted with another man who has everything but lives in a perpetual rat race. There are at least two rat races, one a demanding schedule of a room lighted by dancing shadows of firelight on its walls does indeed reduce tension and induce peace of mind.

THIS TENSED-UP executive flopped down in my office. "I've had it," he growled. "I'm all run down. What a lousy existence."

"You're not all run down," I said. "You are all wound up. And what you need is peace of mind, or else."

"And just where in this blankety-blank world can one find peace of mind?" he challenged wistfully.

"Well, this might help," I quoted some words which have proved a therapy to many. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee."

"Peace I give unto you. Let not your heart be troubled."

"Could be," he said thoughtfully. "It just could be."

Ultimately he found what many modern men desperately need — peace of mind.

AT CONFERENCE Church Teachings Re-evaluated in Light of Modern Concepts

NOTRE DAME, Ind. — A psychedelic light show, re-enactment of racial incidents and study of what the church is good for will be highlights of a national conference on Christian education sponsored by the United Church of Christ Board for Homeland Ministries on the campus of the University of Notre Dame, Aug. 27-30.

More than 2,000 church educators, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, are registered to attend the conference which will consider "the Church's educational ministry in a new time."

They will study such things as how to make moral decisions; peace and war; racism and poverty; human sexuality; the generation gap; the population explosion; presidential election issues; coping with controversy; mass communication, and ecumenism.

Participants may choose from 68 different study groups and workshops designed to help them examine contemporary problems in the light of the Christian faith and to aid them in their specific educational work back home.

A variety of worship services will also be available, including morning prayers, meditation-centered worship, and vespers in the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes. Participants will also be welcomed at morning mass in the crypt of Notre Dame's Sacred Heart Church.

The conference is the eighth of its type the United Church of Christ has sponsored since 1937. Notre Dame was chosen as the site this year to highlight the ecumenical spirit of the meeting, according to Dr. Frances W. Eastman, Boston, secretary for special program development of the United Church Board's Division of Christian Education and director of the meeting.

The aim of the conference is "to find new ways of thinking about the Christian faith, develop new styles for discovering what faith has to do with life's real issues, and seek new insights on how to perform the church's educational ministry," Dr. Eastman said.

Attending the conference will be ministers, youth leaders, church school teachers, parents, and directors of Christian education — "any person interested in a new look at church education," said Dr. Eastman.

The Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr, New York City, president of the two-million member denomination, will welcome the participants at the first session Tuesday evening.

The conference will swing Wednesday and Thursday nights with the opening of six coffee houses on campus offering everything from poetry reading and rock to serious conversation about the war in Vietnam. There will also be a film festival, live drama, an art show, and a multi-media library. All will be related to the conference theme.

Conference highlights will include:

—A coffee house which will focus on "white racism" for its theme, with discussions, films, and skits re-enacting actual racial incidents which have taken place in Cincinnati.

—Rev. Thayer Greene, New York City, an analytical psychologist and former Amherst, Mass., parish minister, speaking on: "The Search for a Christian Paganism."

—The "Paint House," a coffee house equipped with easels, paint, and brushes where the participant may experiment with non-verbal expression.

—"How Do We Make Moral Decisions?" a study group led by the Rev. James Burtchell, C.S.C., chairman of Notre Dame's Department of Theology, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Strobel and the Rev. Dr. James Nelson of the United Theological Seminary of the Twin Cities.

The names of the past grand statements of Greece and Rome have come and gone, but the name of this man abounds more and more. Though time has spread nineteen hundred years between the people of this generation and the scene of His crucifixion, yet He still lives. He could not destroy Him, and the grave could not hold Him.

He stands forth upon the highest pinnacle of heavenly glory, proclaimed by angels, adored by saints, and feared by devils, as the living, personal Christ, the Messiah and Saviour.

We preach this Christ of Calvary. Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

Students 'Disenchanted' With Scientific Theory

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

College students are becoming disenchanted with science as a solution to the world's ills.

They are increasingly concerned with spiritual values.

They acknowledge the need for some kind of faith — in the sense of a belief-system not susceptible to proof — to give meaning to life.

They have a strong sense of "wonderment and mystery" and are eager to learn more about meditation and contemplation.

But they are apt to tune you right out if you start talking about God.

These observations about the mind-set of today's young intellectuals come from Dr. Michael Novak, a Catholic philosopher who teaches at Stanford University. They are recorded in The Center magazine, published by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, Calif.

Novak finds his students — especially the brighter ones — quite receptive to the idea there is a higher reality than the physical world perceived by the senses.

"When you talk about meditation or contemplation, the classroom comes alive, the students listen to every word . . . students know very well what you are talking about."

"But the word 'God' has been ruined for them by the way politicians have used it, and by the way some churchmen use it. It's like the word 'love.' So you have to go around by indirection when you're talking about God."

Novak rarely encounters the rigorous materialism which caused an earlier generation of college students to look askance at all talk of spiritual values and to place their faith in science for betterment of the human condition.

"Today's students see the 'myth of the useful' in contemporary science . . . they reject the pervasive utilitarianism which would make even human persons replaceable, like tools in a system.

"Increasingly the questions the brightest students are raising are questions about values. They are, properly speaking, theological questions, and they are the main interests of many, many people."

Religious labels do not much interest them, however.

"They feel it is more important to do the thing than to say what you are doing."

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

Birth Control Encyclical Unparalleled in History

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — History records numerous instances when decisions by the papacy have provoked broad repercussions. And sometimes, teaching pronouncements eventually have been changed.

Such cases were being cited by church scholars this week as dissension continued over Pope Paul's encyclical upholding the church's prohibition against contraception.

However, in the present era, no parallels were seen to equal the current wave of controversy among Catholics themselves.

"Seldom, if ever before, has a papal encyclical provoked such a mixture of opinion among Catholics," said the Catholic National Register. The long Island Catholic called it the "greatest crisis in authority" in modern Church annals.

Despite comparisons with the past, however, circumstances presently were not regarded as offering much prospect for early modification, at least not until other conditions or leadership come about.

"I don't see how the Pope could ever change his views after making a statement as strong as this," says Msgr. Austin Vaughan, of Yonkers, N.Y., president of the American Catholic Theological Society. "It would be easier for the Pope to resign than to change this statement."

The National Catholic Reporter published speculation that the issue might be a factor in the next papal election.

Scholars also noted that at various times in the past, firm papal teachings have ultimately been altered or reversed by later church leaders after the passage of years.

"It is plain that the fallible statements of earlier popes have been refuted in the course of time by the criticism and rejection of the Church," says John T. Noonan, a Catholic law expert of the University of California.

He and others, including the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Tracy Ellis, a noted church historian, cited various examples in which papal pronouncements eventually were reversed, including:

—An 1185 ruling by Pope Urban III, in his ban against usury, holding that the charging of interest on loans and credits was immoral — a practice now accepted by church and society as a useful economic measure.

—Pope Gregory XVI's 1832 encyclical condemning the idea that everyone is entitled to freedom of conscience as "a delirium" and a "pestilential error" — a view strongly rejected by the Second Vatican Council in its declaration on religious freedom and rights of conscience.

—A 1302 definition by Pope Boniface VIII that "it is entirely necessary for salvation that every human creature be subject to the Roman pontiff" — a view long since repudiated by the Church, most recently by the Second Vatican Council's decree on ecumenism.

Several other cases also were mentioned. The Rev. Gregory Baum, of the University of Toronto, has pointed out that Pope Honorius I was condemned by a church council for teaching heretical doctrine.

Writing in the Journal of Ecumenical Studies, Father Baum said that a "myth or legend of the papacy" has occasionally been fostered, suggesting that ordinary teaching documents of the Pope are infallible.

He says such a view is unfounded.

The church, since its early years, has opposed contraception, a conviction that arose when populations were sparse and infant mortality high. The Vatican pointed out that Pope Paul's reiteration of the teaching was not specified as being infallible.

Only about 1930 did Protestant churches begin reassessing their own views on birth control, beginning with the Anglican Episcopal communion. Most Protestant bodies have since voiced approval of birth control.

As for other papal pronouncements that have caused sharp reactions, they usually have been in the far past, and involved resistance from quarters already in dispute with the Church over its teachings.

Such was the case when the Pope excommunicated the 16th century German reformer, Martin Luther, a conflict which led to the Protestant Reformation.

Similar action in the 11th century against the Patriarch of Constantinople, in a conflict over papal authority and part of the Nicene Creed, marked the split between Rome and Eastern Orthodox Christians.

The mutual anathemas pronounced then were revoked in 1965 by Pope Paul and Patriarch Athenagoras I.

Other Church decrees have sometimes produced wide religious and political reactions, mostly in modern times, from Protestants rather than Catholics.

However, Protestants have been more restrained in reactions to the recent papal declaration, generally reflecting disappointment.

An American Baptist, the Rev. Dr. Stanley I. Stuber, said the ensuing conflict may spur a "second phase" of church renewal, going beyond pastoral and liturgical matters to deal with moral and theological issues such as papal authority.

Knight of Columbus Set 3-Day Meeting

Resolutions dealing with the activities of war protesters and decrying criticism of episcopal authority within the Church are among those being presented to delegates to the 86th annual meeting of the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus which opens at the Anaheim Convention Center Tuesday.

In all some 180 resolutions will be considered by the almost 400 delegates from the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, Cuba, the Panama Canal Zone, Guam and Guatemala.

The Supreme Council forms the highest legislative body of the 1.2 million-member fraternal society of Catholic men. During the three-day meeting the delegates will examine various activities and programs of the society.

A proposed resolution taking issue with the activities of some pacifist groups would put the society on record as deploring "the unpatriotic actions of these individuals who burn draft cards, desecrate the flag of our country, destroy government records or property, interfere with or obstruct military activity."

Another resolution commends the bishops of North America "for their unselfish and devoted dedication to the spiritual welfare of the Catholic people; for their courageous and intelligent leadership in the face of the many challenges of these changing times; and for their judicious restraint and paternal understanding in suffering the sometimes shrill voice of criticism."

According to another proposal the fraternal society would go on record as opposing "any laws which provide tax funds for the support of birth control" or "any laws which liberalize abortion or any recognition of 'mercy killing' or any similar attempt to deny the right of life or the dignity of life or any control over life by any level of government."

Other resolutions urge the strengthening of social action programs within the order to deal with the issues of poverty and equal opportunity in jobs, housing and education.

The chief executive officer of the fraternal association, Supreme Knight John W. McDewitt, will present a posthumous award to Walt Disney for his long and successful dedication to the ideal of wholesome motion picture entertainment.

Consisting of a large bronze plaque, the award will be made in the $100 million magic kingdom of Disneyland Monday. It then will be kept on display in Disneyland's City Hall.

L.B. Site Priests' Suspensions For YMCA Dramatize New Era Girls' Meet

"Weak Signals and Sundays" is the theme for the forthcoming Girls' Service Organization (GSO) West Coast Conference to be held in Long Beach Aug. 23, 24 and 25.

Girls representing four states and eight GSO units will participate in the three day event, hosted by the Long Beach Armed Services YMCA GSO.

Functioning in a service capacity, the GSO operates as a hostess group to the men of the Armed Forces. Open to all unmarried girls, 17 to 24, they plan weekly activities and take part in a variety of social and creative programs.

According to Evelyn Whealen, conference chairman, the girls are gathering to share ideas, improve national image, work on self improvement, and discuss their role as volunteers working with the servicemen.

Conference leadership includes Mrs. Betty Metz, professor of sociology at Long Beach City College; Howard B. Wilson, director of program of the Armed Services Department of the National Council of YMCAs; and Charles Lamoy, YMCA director stationed in a USO in Vietnam.

Armed Service YMCAs that will be represented include Seattle and Bremerton, Wash.; El Paso, Tex.; Honolulu; Oceanside, San Diego, San Francisco and Long Beach.

les are now running a school in Dar-Es-Salaam for political refugees from Mozambique, and at least a dozen have been expelled from Rhodesia in the last two years for aiding blacks. Others have helped Angolan students flee from Portuguese police by hiring professional smugglers.

BOTH PROTESTANT and Roman Catholic mission officials claim they know of only a handful of missionaries whose concern for developing an active non-Communist left has led them into working with guerrillas.

In potentially explosive situations such as South America, however, the line between social change and violent revolution is sometimes a meandering one.

Hundreds of American missionaries in Latin America, for instance, are actively teaching social justice in the seminaries and universities, and in some situations this alone is tantamount to being charged with being a Communist.

Rev. Blase Bonpano, a 38 year-old Maryknoll missionary who was also recalled from Guatemala but not suspended, explained this week why he was led to identify with guerrilla forces:

"No one wants violence, but when you have American power thrown behind 2 per cent of the people who own 80 per cent of the land, and supporting a right-wing army that shoots reformers on the spot as 'Communists,' violence is already institutionalized."

For those who seek radical social change — whether peaceful or violent — theologians have been busy offering support with what are loosely described as "theologies of revolution."

In his encyclical last March, "Populorum Progressio," Pope Paul VI left the door open for guerrilla activity when he denounced revolutions as wasteful and destructive "save when there is manifest longstanding tyranny which will do great damage to fundamental human rights and dangerous harm to the common good of the country."

Breath of Gnats Makes Swallows Welcome

Story and Photos
By DICK EMERY

Dock workers are breathing easier today, because of the swallows.

For some days past, every deep breath around the big Indies Terminal on Terminal Island fetched gnats.

They were very, very small gnats.

They were thickest around the piled hides awaiting shipment to Japan.

"Hide bugs," said the longshoremen, slapping and batting, and trying to breathe through their teeth.

Then came the swallows.

As every bird nut knows, swallows eat only insects caught in flight. The swallows—there are lots of different kinds of swallows—relish mosquitoes and midges and gnats.

The swallows by dozens came winging over the harbor and they zipper back and forth over the acres of salted hides. Gnats perished by uncountable thousands.

From time to time, squadrons of swallows took time out on a nearby utility line to rest and stretch and preen. Then the squadron would return to battle.

Bugs of one kind or another are not new to the harbor. Copra bugs—Necrobia rufipes—otherwise known as the red-legged ham beetle—arrive with copra cargoes and they fly around for a few days. The Plant Quarantine section of the Quarantine Station on Terminal Island (U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare), says copra bugs don't seem to survive our coolish climate.

As for the "hide bugs" which have become hors d'oeuvres for the swallows, the Plant Quarantine Section's entomologist, Lorin R. Gillogley, says they are Ephydrid flies, kindred of the gnats which swarm over the Great Salt Lake and Mono Lake.

"They are meat-eaters, and they like salt water," Gillogley said. "The ones here came in with the hides, and will lay eggs in the hides. The larvae will feed in the moist, salted tissues."

"This fly is only one-eighth of an inch long. He has a shiny black body, clear wings and large red eyes. He doesn't bite. He's just a nuisance."

Longshoremen agree.

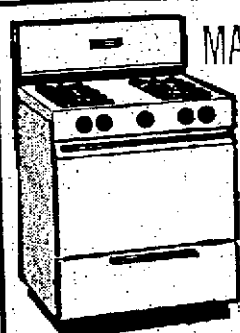

BUGGED by prospect of being swallowed by hungry bird, long-legged (for his size) gnat scurries for cover.

BIRDS, possibly transients from Mission San Juan Capistrano, ready wings for gnat-catching mission of their own in 'Operation Swallow.'

Angels Give Bats, Balls to Fans, Game to Nats

By FRED CLAIRE
Staff Writer

The Angels gave away free baseballs and bats Friday night. They also gave away a game.

Youngsters were given a choice of a ball or bat as they entered Anaheim Stadium. The Washington Senators were on the receiving end of the game.

The Angels gave the Senators four unearned runs and went down to a 4-2 defeat.

The give-away program for the youngsters helped to attract a crowd of 21,361, but many of them went home early after the Angels kicked away the game with three errors.

Even with the Angels' fourth largest crowd of the season, attendance at the Big A is down 215,387 after 56 dates.

The attendance doesn't figure to improve, particularly when it's noted the Angels' opponents for four remaining weekends of play at the Big A are Washington, Oakland, Boston and Chicago.

The Senators managed only four hits off three Angel pitchers, but with the help of the errors they produced a pair of two-run innings and 4-0 lead.

Rookie third baseman Winston Llenas made his second error in as many games to permit the Senators two unearned runs in the fourth. Errors by shortstop Jim Fregosi and catcher Tom Satriano contributed to two more unearned runs in the fifth.

Angel rookie pitcher Bill Harrelson (0-4) tossed in a wild pitch in each inning, but he has a right to be a little nervous. Harrelson now has pitched 22 innings of major league baseball and he has received the support of one run during this period.

The first of Harrelson's three starts this season was against Oakland July 31st.

The Angels got him a run in the first inning, but it was no indication of things to come. They haven't scored for him since.

Joe Coleman (9-13) beat the Angels for the second time in 10 days and was working on a three-hit shutout entering the seventh when the Halos tallied twice.

One of the Angel runs was unearned, perhaps due to a guilt feeling on the part of Senators. Satriano singled for the first Angel run, scoring Rick Reichardt who had walked and moved to second on a ground out.

An error by third baseman Ken McMullen on a ball hit by Llenas sent Satriano to third and the Angel catcher scored on pinch hitter Roger Repoz' sacrifice fly.

Coleman, who beat the Angels 1-0 August 6, left the game in the eighth after yielding singles to Vic Davalillo and Reichardt with two out.

The Senators then called on a pitcher who pulled off a noteworthy act — Barry Moore. He walked pinch-hitter Bubba Morton to load the bases and then retired Satriano on a groundout to first.

Moore departed in the ninth with two outs after he had given up a single to Llenas and a walk to Eddie Kirkpatrick. Dave Baldwin came in and retired Fregosi on a fly to center to end the game.

Harrelson gave up only three hits in five innings and recorded seven strikeouts. Dennis Bennett gave up one hit in two innings and then Andy Messersmith was perfect over the final two innings while striking out three of the six batters he faced.

"We sure didn't give that kid (Harrelson) much support, at-bat or in the field," said Angel manager Bill Rigney.

"I'll have to admit this is shaking my confidence a little," said the 22-year-old Harrelson. "When I go out there I feel like I can't give up a run, earned or unearned.

"You know what will happen. I'll probably get four or five runs early the next time and then I'll get raked. I'm due to get some runs but I'm probably also due to get hit."

Harrelson has given up 10 earned runs and 15 hits in 22 innings while recording 16 strikeouts. "He's not quite polished yet, but he'll be a good one," said Rigney.

Rigney, of course, is even more concerned about the Angels' lack of hitting than Harrelson. It's a worry for Rigney every day.

The Angel manager said he planned to do a little sailing today to take his mind off baseball. The way things are going for Rigney he probably won't get much of a breeze to help him along.

BLAME USLTA FOR POOR SCHEDULING

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UPI) — The chairman of the 88th National Amateur Tennis Championships Friday blasted the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. for allowing an overlapping of tournament schedules that pirated players from the national title play.

"How they ever scheduled Baltimore is beyond me," said Walter Elcock, head of the 10-day national tournament which opened Friday.

He was referring to the Baltimore Country Club Grass Courts Invitational tournament, an 11th hour tournament which was scheduled within the last couple of months and lured many top-ranking men and women players. The tournament runs until at least Sunday and that means the top players miss at least the first three days of the national court play.

Podres Keeps Up His Hopes

BALISTON SPA, N.Y. (AP) — Johnny Podres, who pitched two key victories for the old Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1955 World Series, is hoping to return to major league baseball with an expansion team.

Podres, 35, will hurl for his hometown Moriah Athletic Club against the Ballston Spa Merchants in a semipro game Sunday.

The left-hander says his goal is to keep in shape in the hope one of the new teams in the majors will sign him up.

Podres was with the Dodgers from 1953 to 1966, when he was sold to the Detroit Tigers. He left baseball after the 1966 season.

In 1955, he posted two victories against the New York Yankees, including a shutout in the seventh game that gave the Dodgers their first world championship.

Podres won 140 games and lost 109 during his 12-year career in the majors.

Yankees Slip Past Athletics

OAKLAND (UPI) — Roy White's run-scoring sixth inning double and the combined seven-hit pitching of sore-armed Al Downing and Lindy McDaniel carried the New York Yankees to a 2-1 victory over the Oakland A's Friday night.

White, who rejoined the Yankees after missing a game because of an Army Reserve meeting, hit his double after Jake Gibbs singled to open the sixth and Mickey Mantle walked for the second time.

The Yankees loaded the bases on an intentional walk to Joe Pepitone but losing pitcher Jim Nash (10-8) got out of the frame without further damage when Bobby Cox hit into a force at the plate and Andy Kosco banged into a double play.

Downing, making his first start since being recalled from Binghamton in the Eastern League, left with one out in the seventh after Jim Gosger singled and Paul Lindblad moved him to second with a sacrifice.

McDaniel took over and gave up just three hits the rest of the way to post his sixth save since coming to the Yankees from the San Francisco Giants July 13.

Reds Outslug Cubbies, 11-7

CHICAGO (UPI) — A home run duel, featuring two-run blasts by Mack Jones, Fred Whitfield, winning pitcher Jim Maloney and Leo Cardenas led the Cincinnati Reds to an 11-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday in wind-swept Wrigley Field.

The Cubs added two homers of their own, both two run roundtrippers by Randy Hundley and Ernie Banks.

Jones slammed his eighth homer of the season following Pete Rose's single in the first inning and White hit his second of the season in the same frame following a single by Tony Perez. The victim of the Reds' outburst was starter and loser Bill Hands, now 14-7.

Maloney homered following a walk to Leo Cardenas in the fourth and Cardenas hit the final Cincinnati homer in the sixth after Pat Corrales was hit by a pitch.

Run-scoring singles by Perez and Clay Carroll and Jones' run-producing triple accounted for the final Reds runs.

Hundley hammered his sixth homer of the season in the sixth after pitcher Archie Reynolds reached first when Maloney's third strike sailed past Johnny Bench for a wild pitch.

Banks' homer, his 22nd of the season, came with a man on in the eighth and was also aided by a 21-mile per-hour wind blowing out steadily to center field during the game.

Willie Smith's pinch-hit, based loaded triple accounted for the first three Cub runs in the fourth inning.

Maloney, with relief help from Carroll, won his 11th game of the season against seven losses.

The silver bowl, donated by the American League for Casey's contributions to baseball, was included among presents carried by Finley, a Chicago insurance executive, on a flight to Oakland Friday.

Other gifts were a pair of ruby-encrusted gold cuff links from Finley and a gold bracelet inlaid with 24 rubies, a gift from Mrs. Finley to Mrs. Edna Stengel.

Spain, Yanks Tied

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Army Lt. Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., put stomach butterflies aside for shortly over an hour Friday, just long enough to score a 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Juan Gisbert and even the U.S.-Spain Davis Cup interzone matches 1-1.

Earlier, Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, had been overwhelmed by Spanish Ace Manuel Santana, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3, before a crowd of 5,238.

"Sure I was nervous," a tired Ashe admitted after the match. "I knew this was one I had to win."

The Virginian, now recognized as the top-rated U.S. player, took no chances. He stormed after Gisbert at the start of the first set and relentlessly piled up a quick 4-0 lead. The set was over in 15 minutes and Ashe losing only four points while serving.

U.S. Capt. Donald Dell said: "Arthur was just tremendous. He knew that we'd be in big trouble if we lost that one."

Dell has yet to name his doubles team for today and Spanish Capt. Jamie Bartoli was also keeping his selection a secret although he said he has decided on his pair.

Dell said he was certain that Spain would go with Santana and Manuel Orantes.

Graebner's loss was the first match dropped by the U.S. team this year in Davis Cup competition. It was also Graebner's first Davis Cup singles set back ever.

Santana needed only 26 minutes to finish off the hometown boy in the opening set, breaking Graebner's service in the fifth and seventh games. Only in the fourth game was Graebner able to gain more than one point when Santana was serving in the match which lasted less than 1 1/2 hours.

Braves Scalp Cards on Torre's Home Run

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Joe Torre's three-run tie-breaking homer in the fifth inning and the combined four-hit pitching of Milt Pappas and Claude Raymond enabled the Atlanta Braves to score a 5-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night.

Torre hit his 10th homer of the year off Steve Carlton after singles by Felipe Alou and Hank Aaron in the fifth to boost the Cardinals into a 4-1 lead.

Felix Millan drove in both the other Atlanta runs with a single after a double by Alou in the third and with another single after Bob Johnson's single and a walk in the sixth. Pappas, who squared his season record at 9-9, yielded the Cardinals' run in the fourth when Curt Flood was safe on Marty Martinez' error, stole second and scored on a single by Orlando Cepeda.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ron Hunt's two-run double and an error by Roberto Pena helped San Francisco rally for three runs in the ninth inning Friday night ending reliever Gary Wagner's string of 19 2-3 scoreless innings and giving the Giants a 7-5 win.

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Jim Kaat doubled home three runs in the second inning, then pitched his way out of repeated trouble in leading Minnesota to a 5-2 victory over Baltimore Friday night.

Kaat's bases-loaded double with two out was stroked to left-center off loser Tom Phoebus, 13-11.

The Twins added two more in the seventh on Rich Reese's double, Oliva's third single, an error and a fielder's choice.

Oliva's three hits gave him the league batting lead at .307 as Rod Carew went 0-for-3 and dropped to .302. Kaat, 9-9, yielded two runs in the sixth.

Bar Little Deck Tops Alamitos Field

Bar Little Deck, which ran impressively at Bay Meadows prior to invading the Southland, makes her seasonal debut at Los Alamitos this evening when she heads a full field of class AAA-minus runners in the featured $3,000 Catalina Purse at 350 yards.

The six-year-old daughter of Bar Deck had two firsts and two seconds in her last four tries at the recent Bay Meadows meet.

Terry Lipham, currently among the leaders in the jockey standings, will ride Bar Little Deck.

Expected to provide the most competition in the Catalina are Ina Jones Girl, Watch Eli and Roan Menace. Ina Jones Girl has been second to Trish's Moon and Mr. Rocket Bar in her only two starts of the meetings, with her conquerors being highly-regarded AAA-plus horses. Watch Eli beat a similar field that he is facing tonight Aug. 6.

Also in the Catalina lineup are streaky June 2, War Galaxie, Cocky Kid, Deb's Bar None, Double Rose and Have A Go. On the also eligible list are Tom Lydon and Little Town.

The Catalina became tonight's feature when the $8,000 Tidy Step failed to fill during the taking of entries Thursday morning. Only three two-year-olds were entered in the Tidy

Step, so the race was called off.

Go Derussa Go closed with a burst of speed in the final yards to nip Mr. Rocket Bar and capture the featured $8,000 Triple Lady Purse Friday night at Los Alamitos.

With Jimmy Dreyer doing the whipping, the three-year-old daughter of Go Man Go zipped 400 yards in 20 seconds flat, fastest time of the meeting and only one-fifth off the track record at the distance.

A crowd of 12,393 saw Go Derussa Go win by a half-length over Mr. Rocket Bar, with Above Par 2 another length behind for third in the seven-horse field.

Zack Collins gave the longshot bettors a thrill in the sixth race when Robin Dobin scooted home in front for a $98.80 payoff.

ROYAL TREATMENT

Rather than risk injury to Cardigan Bay, richest harness horse of all-time, trainer-driver Stanley Dancer lets the 12-year-old champion spend part of his daily workout in pool. Scheme must work. Cardigan Bay has won $989,571.

Puzzle of Friday, August 16, Solved

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Social invitations should be made and accepted today. Your church needs your support. The late evening is good for planning the coming week.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20): Romance lurks around every corner today (for those eligible). The knicker-knicker are apt to find some new, fascinating quality in their mates. Consider nights with friends; some of the news is odd.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Just when it seems the day is doing just fine, events take a queer bounce. Keep your composure while you figure things out. Your home is the best place today.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Long-range planning comes after your religious considerations today. Great care in driving or around the house is essential. Take no chances!

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your friends may upset you. There is no return to the situation as it used to be.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This Sunday should mark a sparkling point in your life, with a turn of events which could expand a lot to fit the season and the day!

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It may be the time to write off some venture. If there are people seeking to acquire your services, ask them the value they place on them. Be skeptical.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Lending considerations should be avoided today. A reason. Examine your personal accounts closely, seeking discrepancies.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Love and romantic interests dominate today. You are not for yourself. Deal with family and friends this evening.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There may come today some invitation to romance. Consideration should be given to it. If you are not sure, you can learn a great deal. You might even more.

Old West As It Really Was

WAH-TO-YAH AND THE TAOS TRAIL. By Lewis H. Garrard. With an introduction by Carl I. Wheat and illustrations from blocks designed and cut by Mallette Dean. American West Publishing Company, $8.95.

The vigorous account by young Lewis H. Garrard in the wild, free Rockies of the 1840s paints a section of the Old West as it really was; it is a picture unembellished yet vivid. The Indians, the traders, the mountain men; the way they dressed, behaved, spoke; the country and its climate and natural wonders, are all here.

Garrard was 17 when he left, on Sept. 1, 1846, Westport Landing (which became Kansas City) with a caravan led by Ceran St. Vrain, the famous trader. Their destination was Bent's Fort in southeastern Colorado.

THEY MADE a long visit at the fort and camp of the Cheyenne Indians. Early in 1847 Garrard joined a volunteer band recruited by William Bent to avenge the death of Bent's brother, Gov. Charles Bent of Taos, during a bloody uprising of Mexicans and Indians in that pueblo of New Mexico.

Garrard's account of the "revolutionaries" trial and hanging is unforgettable, and in fact, the only account extant by a witness.

Kit Carson, Jim Beckwourth, many other notable mountain men figure in this book. — Nat Hoenig.

Oscar Meinhardt Rosary Sunday, Mass on Monday

Rosary will be recited Sunday at 8 p.m. at St. John The Baptist De La Salle Church in Granada Hills for Oscar Meinhardt, bald, brash, raspy-voiced impresario who created the Miss Universe contest and the International Beauty Congress for Long Beach.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated Monday at 10 a.m. in the church.

Meinhardt, 69, who had been living in quiet retirement in Granada Hills, died late Thursday of complications from a stroke he suffered two months.

The short, balding Meinhardt challenged the Miss America contest in Atlantic City in 1952 by engineering an even bigger extravaganza in Long Beach.

Meinhardt decided "America" wasn't big enough to describe his production and launched the Miss Universe Contest, and from crisis to crisis presided over the laughing, weeping, sometime triumphant and more often vanquished beauties who swarmed to Long Beach each year.

But a rift developed between the city and the co-sponsoring Catalina swimsuit people, and the company moved its money and the contest name to Florida.

But, the dauntless Meinhardt bounced right back. He put together a new show, the International Beauty Congress.

After a few years, Meinhardt left his extravaganza. It never was the same without him, and the IBC preceded him in death.

'Jenny Kissed Me' Comedy Sparkles on Bellflower Stage

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

Bellflower Theater Arts Association's current "Jenny Kissed Me" is a crowd-pleaser, for very good reasons.

The Jean Kerr vehicle is gently, whimsically funny, unpretentious and totally predictable. Also, it showcases Nathan Adler's top professional characterization of a Barry Fitzgerald-like priest around whom the emerging romantic action revolves.

HE IN TURN is surrounded by an able cast which, if it doesn't collectively reach his Equity caliber, is never upstaged or downplayed.

As the plot thickens, Father Moynihan — Adler's clerical-Irish brogue is almost uninterruptedly flawless — runs a tight, conservative parish. He increasingly is suspicious of the "younger generation," particularly a 34-year-old lay church executive who is rooming with him, But Mike Saunders, done by Bob McKinney, isn't yet ready to wed. Not in the beginning, that is.

Then the rectory's sweetly scheming housekeeper, done by Carolyn Stone, introduces her 18-year-old niece, a fresh, "unspoiled young thing" from the High Plains.

Fr. Moynihan is outraged. Bachelor hall will never be the same again. He plots to marry off the severe girl intellectual by first gussying her up — as he saw described in the "Ladies Home Companion."

DIANE Ross as the prairie rose transplanted to the city, is indeed transformed by the priest, and becomes involved with the boys. All of which gives the cleric second thoughts.

"I'm not so young, father," Jenny says in one spirited dialogue. "By the time Jeanne d'Arc was my age she'd been burned at the stake!"

"So now you consider yourself a failure, eh?" he retorts.

On stage that's a very funny line, one typical of the dry humor which keeps an audience in low-key laughter.

The predictable occurs, of course, and why repeat it here? The show ends on a pleasant note with all loose ends neatly tied.

DIRECTOR Jess May does an excellent job pacing his cast with sureness. There is an absolutely first-rate set, the priest's living room, designed by Edith Gilbertson and Ray Schulte.

Also appearing in the cast are Vivian Christensen, Jeannie Turner, Roberta Vermillion, Kathy Crew, Jane Young, Tom Cole, and in double-cast roles, Jackie Rohrer, Cathy Wilkinson, Bob Maynard and Warren Lough.

"Jenny Kissed Me" will be repeated on an 8:30 p.m. Thursday-Saturday schedule through Aug. 24 at Stephen Foster School, 5223 E. Bigelow St., Bellflower.

Mary Costa, Philharmonic, Marian Anderson in Bowl

By DANIEL CARIAGA
Music Critic

This was the week that beloved and-or beautiful ladies dominated the programs at Hollywood Bowl.

Tuesday it was Yvette Milleux, the French-American actress, who added dramatic presence to a concert version of Stravinsky's balletic cantata, "Persephone."

Thursday it was two famous American singers, contralto Marian Anderson, who narrated Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait" (she retired from singing three years ago), and soprano Mary Costa, making the first of two consecutive Bowl appearances.

CONDUCTOR Lawrence Foster assisted, leading the Los Angeles Philharmonic in stylistic accompaniments to Miss Costa's singing of Samuel Barber's "Knoxville: Summer of 1915" and five of Canteleube's "Songs of the Auvergne" in a forceful reading of the "Portrait," and in two familiar orchestral offerings, Brahms' Variations on a Theme of Haydn, and the suites from Falla's "Sobre los Tres Picos."

If that sounds like a potpourri of a program, it was. What saved it from being just another symphonic variety show was some clean, careful playing from the orchestra, the elegant and purposeful manner of Miss Anderson's spoken contributions, and the utter sincerity, musicality and poetic projection Miss Costa brought to her selections.

WHICH is not to say the beautiful blonde singer has regained the freshness and limpidity of her quondam vocal equipment after several years of technical floundering. But she seems in better voice now than in some time; she may have settled into a repertoire completely congenial to her gifts; and there is a measure of solidity in her singing that she had lost for a while.

Latin Fiesta Set Sunday — The first in a proposed series of fiestas featuring top Latin stars at a free-admission concert will be held Sunday in Lincoln Park.

An official of Musicians Union Local 47 said the fiesta, scheduled to start at 2 p.m., will be emceed by Lalo Guerrero, who will also be a performer.

The fiesta is sponsored by the Music Performance Trust Fund of the recording industry in cooperation with the City of Los Angeles.

The fiesta is part of a special series administered by the local union to provide free, live music to large segments of the population.

Local 47 Vice President Max Herman said that if the Latin fiesta draws widespread community response, "we will look forward to another one in the near future."

74-Year-Old Woman Dead in L.A. Blaze — A 74-year-old woman was burned to death shortly before midnight as she apparently sat in an overstuffed chair watching television. The body of Mrs. Goldie E. Copeland was found in the chair in the living room by firemen who responded to the blaze at her home.

Of course, at no point in her career was she ever hailed for her diction, which remains variable. And, in sustained passages at any level, her control of pitch tends to sag (in the otherwise admirably sung Canteleube songs, the "Bailero" was an embarrassment to everyone present). Yet, given her considerable artistry and irresistible visual impact, one will continue to attend her concerts, always hoping for the best.

Copland's suprapatriotic "Lincoln Portrait" (1942) shows its age more obviously than does the legendary Marian Anderson (b. 1902). Still, it was welcome as the focal point of this varied program, especially since the Brahms and Falla works, for all the neatness of their execution, sounded just a bit stodgy and foursquare in Foster's hands.

Comedienne Tina Pica Dies at 80

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Tina Pica, actress-comedienne whose guttural voice and stone-faced expression delighted Italians for more than 60 years, died in her native Naples Friday. She was 80.

Mrs. Pica retired five years ago after completing "Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow" which she did with Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni.

She made more than 100 movies, many in the starring role. Small and definitely not attractive, she was teamed on the stage and on the screen with all leading Italian comedians.

Assisted by her father, also an actor, she made her stage debut in a Neapolitan theater when she was still a teen-ager. She was a member of the Eduardo de Filippo troupe for 16 years before turning to the cinema.
